GALE IN TEXAS KILLS 17 AND HURTS SCORES

Heavy Property Damage Done by Hurricane in Wide Area.

COMPLETE CHECK-UP ON TOLL IMPOSSIBLE

Relief Plea Is Carried From Stricken Area Near Gulf by Bus Driver.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 14 (A.P.)—Seventeen persons were dead, at least 50 were injured and property damage was estimated today at many thousands of dollars in the wake of a tropical storm which buffeted south Texas last night.

The list of dead and injured slowly mounted as crippled communications were repaired and rescue workers moved into the stricken area, which centered roughly about this city with a radius of 75 or 100 miles.

The storm moved slowly throughout south Texas in a Southwest direction tonight with rapidly diminishing force, after sweeping an area near Taylor, about 200 miles northwest of Houston.

Striking the Texas Coast between Galveston and Freeport, 34 miles from Galveston, late yesterday, the storm raged for many hours, the wind attaining a velocity of about 70 miles an hour at Houston. From Galveston and Houston it moved north to Taylor before turning Southwest.

Many Others Reported Hurt.

"It is following the usual course of such disturbances," the Weather Bureau at Dallas reported. "It probably will blow itself out without further violence."

Rain-drenched rural roads were almost impassable.

Angleton, Tex., 50 miles south of Houston, was hit heavily.

Reports reaching Houston were that possibly 100 persons had been injured there, but failure of telephone wires and the blockade of roads by mud and fallen trees prevented immediate verification.

Galveston, island city devastated by a hurricane of September, 1900, weathered the storm behind the seawall which guards it from the Gulf. Trees were blown down, shipping suffered and water rose on the causeway linking the city with the mainland, but a check disclosed only two injured.

Toll Heaviest Near Gulf.

Houston, where three persons were killed and property damage estimated at $1,000,000 was done by a hurricane in 1915, was caught in the center of the disturbance.

Virtually all the victims were resi-

Texas Mayor Asks Aid of Red Cross

Telegram Received Here Saying Hundreds Are Destitute.

(Associated Press.)

The Red Cross last night made public a telegram from W. E. Welford, Mayor of Eagle Lake, Tex., saying hundreds of families there were destitute and in need of food as a result of the storm which struck Texas last night.

The wire was relayed to the St. Louis Red Cross office, which is directing relief activities.

The Red Cross also announced its officials in Houston have been instructed to make a quick preliminary survey to determine what need for help there is.

St. Louis, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—F. A. Winfrey, in charge of the Midwest branch of the American Red Cross, with headquarters here, said tonight he was awaiting reports from representatives of the organization who are making a survey of the damage caused by the storm which struck Houston, Galveston and other Texas coast districts, before determining whether Red Cross assistance would be necessary. Winfrey said no definite request for aid had been received here.

2 Women Endurance Fliers Take Off Again

Valley Stream, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Refreshed by a night's sleep at the airport, Mrs. Frances Harrell Marsalis and Louise McPhetridge Thaden took off at 1 o'clock, Eastern standard time, this afternoon in a second attempt to establish a new world's refueling endurance flight record for women.

Their first attempt to better the record of 122 hours and 20 minutes held by Bobby Trout and Edna May Cooper ended yesterday when a bucket containing their breakfast was lowered into the wing tip of the plane tearing the fabric. The women had been aloft 17 hours.

Allied Forces, Drys, Vote to Back Hoover

Poll of Leaders Shows 187–205 in Favor of President, After Speech; Organization, Against Repeal, to Oppose Wet Candidates.

(Associated Press.)

The Allied Forces, a prohibitionist organization, announced yesterday through Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman, that it has decided to support President Hoover for reelection.

In a poll of national executive committeemen and outstanding supporters of the Allied Forces, Dr. Poling said 187 out of 205 voted to support Mr. Hoover after his statement of his position on prohibition in accepting the Republican presidential nomination Thursday night.

Dr. Poling's statement said:

"Following the acceptance speech of President Herbert Hoover, the executive committee of the Allied Forces voted to support Mr. Hoover's candidacy. This action was taken without prejudice to the fundamental position of the Allied Forces with regard to the eighteenth amendment and its supporting legislation.

"The Allied Forces are against repeal.

"The Allied Forces are against any weakening of enforcement laws.

"The Allied Forces do not indorse any proposal for modification. Specifically, we reaffirm our former statement: 'As to the Republican plank, we reject the resubmission program. Should any amendment to the Constitution be considered, we are opposed to the State convention plan

SOVIET-JAPAN PACT REACHED ON FISHING

Agreement on Pacific Coast Rights Eases Strained Relations.

Moscow, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Another step toward easing relations between Soviet Russia and Japan, which have been especially strained by the Manchurian conflict, was taken today when it was announced the dispute over Pacific Coast fishing rights had been settled.

This dispute for a long time has troubled relations between Moscow and Tokyo.

Under a special agreement signed yesterday the Soviet government will refrain from auctioning to the highest bidder 330 holdings out of a total of 390 involved in the Russo-Japanese fishing convention of 1928. No action will be taken in regard to these holdings until 1936. This means that Japanese concessionaires will not be disturbed for four years.

The controversy arose out of the Japanese contention that the Soviet government, by carrying out a plan to auction all holdings this year, would injure Japanese interests protected by the 1928 treaty.

Negotiations for the settlement took a year and a half, during which numerous charges and countercharges of treaty violations were made by the two countries.

The new agreement was signed for Russia by H. M. Karakhan, assistant commissar for foreign affairs, and for Japan by Ambassador Koki Hirota.

A refutation of reports that Soviet Russia was launching a concerted military mobilization in expectation of a clash with Japan was seen today in the customary summer orders issued by the Revolutionary War Council.

The usual indefinite furloughs were granted to three classes of troops and youths entering the prescribed age for compulsory military service were called to the colors. Effective between September 25, 1932, and April, 1933, the orders released from active service all members of the land, air and naval forces whose four, three and two year enlistments began in 1923, 1929 and 1930.

U. S. Refuses Brazil Warfare Recognition

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—The Sao Paulo state revolutionists received a setback today when the United States refused to grant their petition for recognition of a state of belligerency. The announcement followed a conference between the United States Military Attache and the Minister of Marine.

Recognition would have paved the way to a reopening of cablegraphic communication between Sao Paulo and Santos and the rest of the world.

CURB ON RED WHEAT REFUSED BY BRITAIN

Reply to Canadian Offer at Ottawa Gives Specific Preferences.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Great Britain, offering Canada specific trade preferences at last in her imperial economic conference bargaining, has refused to jeopardize her Russian trade by placing either an embargo or a quota limit on Russian wheat, authoritative Canadian sources said tonight.

A preferential tariff of three pence (six cents) a bushel on wheat, two pence on copper and an increase from 10 to 20 per cent on lumber was included in the offer, according to this authority. Britain declined to offer preferences on dairy products or meats.

As to dumping of Russian products, a sore spot with Canada, the British were said to have promised merely that, if Canada made a specific complaint of dumping in any instance, the complaint would be investigated.

An indication of the sharpness of the bargaining was given by the Canadian statement that the British delegation had said that unless an agreement was reached, Britain would be forced to cancel the preferences given Canadian products in the tariff of last December. In response, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett told the British that Canada might also cancel British preferences.

As had been indicated, Britain asked strong preferential treatment for herself on iron and steel products, textiles, leather goods and coal, and asked free competition with Canadian manufacturers for British goods.

Canada, the authority said, is not satisfied with the offer. Bennett and the leading British delegates will meet tomorrow to carry on their deal. Both believe that an agreement will be reached, and they would like to do it soon, in order that a plenary session can be held Thursday.

Ottawa, Ontario, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—With major agreements in the imperial economic conference due to be reached this week, delegates estimated today that only one-third of the $200,000,000 additional trade which Great Britain may expect from the dominions could be diverted from the United States.

Princess Ileana Gives Birth to Son in Vienna

Vienna, Austria (Monday), Aug. 15 (A.P.).—A son was born early today to Princess Ileana of Roumania. Physicians reported that mother and child were doing nicely.

The baby, whose father is the Archduke Anton of Hapsburg, to whom Ileana was married last year, will be christened Stephan.

GIBBONS' WORK HIGHLY LAUDED AT STATUE RITE

President Accepts K. of C. Memorial Here at Notable Ceremony.

GEN. MALONE HEADS PARADE OF 20,000

Churchmen and Envoys Hear Cardinal Referred To as Great Priest and Man.

The memory of the late James Cardinal Gibbons, enshrined in bronze, was presented to the Nation yesterday by the Knights of Columbus and accepted by President Hoover, who described the prelate as a "great leader in his faith" and a "man devoted to the widest humanities, and an American of burning patriotism."

As if in benediction, the right hand of the bronze figure was raised above the crowd of 20,000 persons who witnessed the presentation of the statue by Martin H. Carmody, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, and its unveiling by Margaret Gibbons Burke, a grandniece of the Cardinal and a recent graduate of Georgetown Visitation Convent.

The distinguished audience of diplomats, Knights of Columbus officers and Government officials, which gathered with thousands of other spectators at the statue in front of the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, heard the Chief Executive refer to the noted ecclesiastic as a "man of the people."

Many Notables Are Present.

Standing by President Hoover on the speakers' stand were Mrs. Hoover, the Apostolic Delegate, the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Maj. E. Brooke Lee, of Montgomery County, Md., and the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore and pastor of St. Gabriel's Church in this city.

The President recalled his association with Cardinal Gibbons during World War relief activities. "Above all," the President said, "the impression he made upon the country was of the power that gentleness, kindliness and homely wisdom can have, not only to shape one's personal life, but also to influence the larger affairs of the community and the Nation."

Before the unveiling, approximately 20,000 members of the Knights of Columbus and other Catholic organizations paraded before the scene of the unveiling. Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commander of the Third Corps Area, was grand marshal of the parade, and reviewed the march from the speakers' stand.

President Hoover told the assemblage that the life of the late cardinal was a "remarkable demonstration of the power of a quietly noble personality to expand its influence to other people far beyond the range of his physical presence."

Led "Life of Great Citizen."

"Cardinal Gibbons was always proud of his American birth and of his American citizenship. He was a patriot, proud of his country, zealous in his support of its democratic institutions. I am glad to accept upon behalf of the Government this com-

Dead Man Called Recluse's Slayer

New Evidence Is Found in Killing of Woman in Mississippi.

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A dead Negro stood accused tonight of slaying Miss Jane Surget Merrill, wealthy recluse and a belle of bygone days, on the night of August 4 on her estate outside Natchez.

Sheriff Clarence P. Roberts had contended she was shot to death by Richard Dana and his housekeeper, Miss Octavia Dockery, her eccentric neighbors and members of once aristocratic families.

A Negro told the sheriff to search a Natchez house for evidence. The sheriff said he found a trunk belonging to a Negro who was killed last Wednesday at Pine Bluff, Ark., by officers when he resisted arrest. The trunk held cartridges, similar in caliber to bullets dug out of walls of the Merrill home, and his clothing, the sheriff said, corresponded with a description of that worn by a man seen on the Merrill grounds shortly before the shooting.

Salvage Vessel Lands $696,000 From Liner

Plymouth, England, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The Italian salvage steamer Artiglio II arrived today and landed £200,000 (about $696,000) worth of gold and silver recovered from the sunken liner Egypt.

The treasure was placed in a van for transportation to London.

POLICE SLAYER OF VETERAN, IN RIOT, IS KILLED

Shinault Shot Dead as He Answers Summons to Break Up Fight.

CORDON THROWN OUT TO CAPTURE GUNMAN

Outgoing Trains Watched and Three Persons Are Held as Witnesses.

Private George W. Shinault, Washington policeman who slew William J. Hushka, Chicago bonus marcher, in the riots of July 28, was shot to death last night when he went with a fellow policeman to break up a fight in a house at 39 F street northwest.

He was the third policeman to be slain in line of duty in the Capital in recent months.

Immediately after the shooting police broadcast a lookout for William Bullock, colored, 33 years old, a resident of the F street address. Persons in the house told them he was the slayer of the policeman. A police cordon was thrown around the block and every available man was brought into the city-wide search for him.

Outgoing Trains Watched.

Outgoing trains were also watched. Investigators were told that Bullock formerly lived at Fountain Inn, S. C. As the search for him went on, two colored girls, a colored woman and a colored man were being held as witnesses to the shooting. Another colored girl and a colored man were being sought.

A trick of fate lured Shinault to his death. He was on duty in a First Precinct scout car. His companion was Private Ralph D. Edwards.

They had just answered a call to Union Station Plaza, where James F. Nicholls, 31-year-old Georgetown University instructor, had collapsed. They had sent the dying man to the hospital and reported back in service.

Had Been Driving Car.

"Scout car No. 11, go to 39 F street northwest, a fight," their radio droned.

Shinault and Edwards scrambled for their places in the car. Shinault had been driving all night, but in hurrying to get into the car, entered by the right door instead of the left.

"Aw," he told Edwards, "I'm on the wrong side."

"That's all right, I'll drive this time," Edwards replied, and took the wheel.

Edwards said he parked the car a few doors down from the F street house and Shinault leaped out. Edwards prepared to follow and started searching for his flashlight. He discovered Shinault had taken it and before he had reached for his partner's he heard two sharp reports, he said.

Shinault ran to the side of the scout car and dropped to his knee, fumbling for his service revolver as he did so.

"Look out, Ed," he said, "that fellow's got a gun."

Before Edwards could move or reply, Shinault collapsed in a heap on the

Explorer Claims Rare Aztec Relics

Briton Says He Has Found Source of American Civilization.

Panama City, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—F. A. Mitchell-Hedges, British explorer, is sailing for New York tomorrow with numerous articles from an undisclosed Central American region where, he asserts, he has discovered the source of Mayan, Aztec, Incan and all other American civilizations.

His expedition was conducted under the joint sponsorship of the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, of New York, and the British Museum. He started from New York in February.

Mr. Mitchell-Hedges said he already had shipped 4,000 specimens to the museum in New York. Among those he is taking with him tomorrow are numerous beads which, he says, are made of jade and jadeite. There also are stone and bronze axes dating back, the explorer says, to the stone and bronze ages.

He described the area where the articles were found as a huge swamp in the midst of which rises a sheer limestone cliff, honeycombed with caves. The specimens were in the caves.

Claudel Reaches France; Plans to Remain Month

Havre, France, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Paul Claudel, French Ambassador at Washington, arrived on the liner Lafayette today.

He said he would remain in France only a month, spending most of his time in Paris.

Statement by President On Calling Conference

In announcing yesterday the conference of business and industrial committees to map economic action, President Hoover said:

"I have called a national conference for August 26 of the business and industrial committees of the twelve Federal Reserve districts for the purpose of organizing a concerted program of action along the whole economic front. The conference will deal with specific projects where definite accomplishments in business, agriculture and employement can be attained and will coordinate the mobilization of private and governmental instrumentalities to that end.

"On July 29 I announced that preliminary conversations were in progress beween responsible heads of the Government instrumentalities and private groups in business and industry as to such a program, and that at a later time I would announce the date of a conference for a more definite development of these ideas. The areas of positive and definite action have been further explored by informal discussions between representatives of various groups and industries with Government officials during the past two weeks.

"Twelve committees representing the Federal Reserve districts were established some weeks ago. I have asked the chairmen of these committees, together with the Government officials set out below to meet in Washington the day before the conference for the purpose of preliminary preparation of the program and organization of the conference:

"Members of the organization committee are: Carl P. Dennett, chairman, Boston district; Owen D. Young, chairman, New York district; George H. Houston, chairman, Philadelphia district; L. B. Williams, chairman, Cleveland district; Edwin C. Graham, chairman, Richmond district; George S. Harris, chairman, Atlanta district;

MITCHELL TO EVADE FURLOUGH BY THRIFT

Outlines Program to Avoid "Administrative" Leaves for Justice Workers.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Attorney General Mitchell yesterday moved to save Department of Justice employes from two months' "administrative" furloughs. He inaugurated a departmental program to spare waste and save jobs.

A three-page circular, admonishing bureau heads to practice "strictest economy" to make additional payless leave unnecessary, was distributed throughout the department.

"We believe we have a reasonable prospect of discharging our duties during the present fiscal year without impairing the service by application of the administrative furlough," he said.

"Avoid, however, carrying the effort at economy to the point of actual inefficiency in the defense or prosecution of Government civil cases or of allowing guilty persons to escape justice."

The Department of Justice was one of five executive departments, including State, Commerce, Labor and Interior, whose funds were cut so severely by Congress that additional payless leave seemed inevitable.

As early as July 1, the Justice Department found "that if the existing personnel were maintained, an administrative furlough would have to be applied in addition to the legislative furlough, and that the average furlough time for each employe of the department would be from 60 to 70 days."

By putting into effect various economies, the Attorney General said $450,000 can be transferred from other appropriations to salary items, leaving an apparent deficit of $431,262.

"Careful and prudent administration upon the part of United States attorneys, marshals and clerks of court will result in saving a considerable part of this sum from the allot-

Ireland Plans Action For Abolishing Senate

Dublin, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—The Free State government is planning to abolish the Seanad Eireann (upper house of Parliament or Senate), because it is acting against the national interest as viewed by the cabinet of President Eamon de Valera.

Gerald Boland, parliamentary secretary to the president, disclosed the plan tonight when, in a speech at Castle Rea, he said the government plans to introduce a bill into the Dail Eireann (the lower house) for abolition of the Senate. The action has been planned because the Senate has delayed bills introduced by the government, he said.

HERRIOT ANSWERS HOOVER ON PEACE

Says France Respects Pact, but Experience Calls for Vigilance.

Metz, France, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Premier Edouard Herriot replied in forceful terms today to President Hoover's speech of acceptance and Secretary of State Stimson's address on the Kellogg-Briand peace pact.

At the opening of the Moselle Canal he declared that while France was on the side of peace she must be forever vigilant because she still was confronted with "appeals to violence" and "eulogies of war."

"We hear the voices of friends who assure us that war has been forever exorcised," he said in reference to the American pronouncements. "We would like to believe them and without delay associate ourselves with their optimism.

"It is easier to conceive in a country practically inviolate than on this soil so often torn up. Despite the most solemn engagements, despite the Briand-Kellogg pact which Secretary Stimson recently commented on in such elevated terms, we perceive also appeals to violence and eulogies of war which we should be able to think had been stilled forever.

"People of wisdom are both pacific and vigilant. President Hoover insisted on the necessity of maintaining the land and naval forces at a level high enough so that no foreign soldier could penetrate her soil.

"Firm in her wish to develop all the works of peace, anxious to participate in all sincere efforts, but guaranteed against any imprudence by the cruel memory of the past, all France models herself on a city which preserves its soul faithfully from any soiling—a soul which has not ceased to furnish an example of independence in dignity."

Two Women Aloft Again in Marathon

Wing Through Night in Try to Eclipse 122-Hour Endurance Mark.

Valley Stream, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Two young women in their "Flying Boudoir" passed their tenth hour aloft at 11 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) tonight and winged on into the moonlit night toward a new endurance flight record for their sex.

Refreshed by a night's sleep at the airport, the two women, Mrs. Frances Harrell Marsalis and Louise McPhetridge Thaden, took off at 1 o'clock (Eastern standard time) this afternoon in their second attempt to better the record of 122 hours and 20 minutes. They had failed yesterday.

Hitler's Demand for Power Brings Deadlock In Reich

Berlin, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Political maneuvering to determine the composition of Germany's next government was deadlocked today as the result of President Paul von Hindenburg's dramatic refusal yesterday to invest Adolf Hitler, whose National Socialist party is the strongest in the Reich, with complete power.

Hitler, who left Berlin immediately after his fruitless interview with the old field marshal, remained aloof from the political arena pending a meeting Tuesday of his closest advisers.

In addition to the outstanding members of the Nazi party, the lesser leaders also will attend this meeting. These will include hundreds of Nazi members of federal, state and local parliaments.

The gathering, which will take place in Berlin, probably will last two days. Hitler is in Munich now, but will return to preside.

The nation today was on the brink of it knew not what, but the people accepted the potentially dangerous situation with German sturdiness. It was a sunshiny Sunday throughout almost all Germany and millions of persons took their ease on the beaches dropping for the time being their political hates.

This was a new development. For several months, Sundays have been bloody days, with numerous political clashes piling up long casualty lists.

The newspaper Lokal Anzeiger came forth with a report to the effect that in his discussions yesterday with President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Franz von Papen, the National Socialist leader left a loophole for solution of the deadlock. According

TRADE PARLEY IS SET AUG. 26 BY PRESIDENT

Reserve District Leaders to Discuss Methods to Aid Business.

HOOVER WILL SELECT SPECIAL COMMITTEES

Program to Cover Questions on Labor, Agriculture, Railways and Credit.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday set August 26 as the date of a White House conference of the business and industrial committees of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts, "for the purpose of organizing a concerted program of action along the whole economic front."

"The conference will deal with specific projects where definite accomplishments in business, agriculture and employment can be attained and will coordinate the mobilization of private and governmental instrumentalites to that end," Mr. Hoover said.

The Chief Executive added that he planned to appoint special committees to deal with questions directly concerning agriculture, labor, railways and other industries.

Subjects Are Enumerated.

Mr. Hoover enumerated the subjects to be "considered and definitely formulated" as follows:

"A canvass of the means, methods, agencies and powers available in the country for general advancement, wider expansion of credit facilities to business and industry where consumption of goods is assured, coordination and expansion of live stock and agricultural facilities, coordination and expansion of financial facilities for the movement of commodities into consumption, expansion of programs for repairs and maintenance of the railways, and creation of organization for further spread of existing employment and expansion of employment."

Among "possible questions" to come up for consideration the President listed the coming world economic conference, protection of bondholders and mortgage renewals and coordination with trade groups.

President Leaves On Fishing Cruise

Starts First Vacation in 17 Months; Will Return to Rapidan.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover cruised down the Potomac last night on his first extended vacation in seventeen months, a rest to be divided between fishing in Chesapeake Bay and a stay in the mountains.

On return from the boat trip of two or more days, the plan is to spend the rest of the week at the Rapidan camp in the Virginia Blue Ridge section.

A crowd of several hundred applauded enthusiastically as Mr. Hoover boarded the Department of Commerce inspection boat Sequoia, at the navy yard.

Those listed in the boat party were Secretaries Hurley and Hyde; Henry M. Robertson, Los Angeles banker; Clarence M. Woolley, president of the American Radiator Co.; Will Irwin, author; Walter Hope, New York banker; Walter H. Newton, a secretary to the President, and Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician.

GALVESTON STORM DAMAGE IS SLIGHT

Two Persons Are Burned by Fallen Wire Only Casualties Reported.

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Uprooted trees, wind damage to small frame structures and broken windows were left in Galveston by the tropical disturbance which entered the Texas coast line a short distance west of here last night.

Protected by the seawall, the city was kept free of salt water.

Flimsy structures on the east and west beaches below the sea wall, however, suffered greatly, many being swept away as the tide rose far over the usual high-water marks.

Debris of soft drink stands, riding stables and small tourists' cabins littered the beach this morning.

Two Burned by Wire.

The only casualties reported were two persons burned on the hands by fallen electric wire.

The city was in darkness after about 7 p. m. yesterday, power having been shut off to minimize danger from fire. Four fire alarms were sounded in the night, but there was no serious blaze.

One freighter was blown adrift from her moorings and drifted across the channel to a sand bank, from which she was floated this morning.

A tank steamer, the Gulflight, had steering gear trouble when she encountered the blow off shore and she came to anchor near the harbor entrance. A Luckenbach Line steamer was reported aground in the Houston ship channel.

Center Near Freeport.

The center of the storm evidently hit near Freeport, about 34 miles away. Weather Bureau figures show a maximum wind velocity at Galveston of 58 miles an hour and a low barometer of 29.28 inches.

Principal monetary damage was caused to roofs of homes and buildings. At Fort Crockett the total loss was estimated at $10,000, this including damages to buildings at the post and flying field and to one airplane which was not in a hangar.

Moody Stadium, home of the Galveston (Texas League) League baseball team, was badly hit, both grandstand and fences being blown down to a large extent.

Horse, Cart and Melons Are Undoing of Man, 43

A horse and wagon and 35 bushels of cantaloupes proved the undoing of Robert Matthews, 43, colored, 3 Dicksons Court southwest, yesterday, according to a police report.

Matthews is charged with driving off with the horse and wagon which, police allege, belonged to William A. Smithson, 464 H street southwest, also the cantaloupes, said to have been the property of Earl R. Carneal, 921 C street southwest. He was charged at the Fourth Precinct with taking property without right and petit larceny.

Deputies Guard Produce Dealers

Highways to Markets Are Picketed as Iowa Farm Strike Continues.

Le Mars, Iowa, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Armed deputies rode produce trucks into this western Iowa town today as the Midwest farm strike entered its second week.

The strike, sponsored by Milo Reno, president of the Iowa Farmers Union, has met with its most popular support in this marketing center. All highways leading to the city are being picketed by the embattled farmers bent upon boosting prices by withholding produce from the market.

One dairyman was manhandled Thursday and a truck load of milk he was taking to market was dumped out. Numerous other truckers have been halted and forced to return to farms with their produce.

POLICEMAN SLAYER OF VETERAN KILLED

sidewalk. He had been shot twice, once near the heart and once in the right of his chest.

His companion leaped from the scout car and shouted to a crowd gathering to hurry the mortally wounded policeman to a hospital. Edwards dashed down a terrace to the scene of the shooting and saw Shinault's slayer run through the front door. Edwards followed through the house and over two fences before losing the man in a maze of alleys.

Shinault, meantime, had been removed to Casualty Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. His service revolver, which he had managed to drag from the holster just before he collapsed, was missing, presumably stolen by some one in the crowd that gathered around his body.

The slain policeman never had a chance for life. The house where the shooting occurred is situated back from the street and is below the sidewalk level, the door being reached from an inclined terrace. Police were told the man was standing in the shadows by the doorway, waiting, and the policeman was shot twice as he put his hands out to open the gate. He probably never saw his assailant until the shots were fired.

Search Is Started.

Inspectors L. I. H. Edwards and Albert J. Headley took charge of the search for Shinault's slayer and five scout cars, two Traffic Bureau cars and several from police headquarters were massed around the block a short time later.

Police held Evins Starks, 28, of 73 G street northwest; Effie Matthews, 12, of 116 F street northwest, and Susie Fletcher, 34, of 39 F street northwest, for questioning in the case.

Shinault was 38 years old and joined the Metropolitan Police Department January 1, 1926. His superiors regarded him as a highly efficient officer with valuable "underground wires," which aided him in several puzzling police cases. After the forays of the "mad sniper," in which one person was killed and several wounded by a person firing from an automobile, Shinault gave them several leads which led them to hope the case would be shortly solved. His tips led to the arrest of a group of men in Baltimore.

The slain policeman made his home at 1380 Franklin street northeast. He is survived by his wife and five children.

Father Cox and 500 Jobless Head for Party Convention

Pittsburgh, Aug. 14 (A.P.)—Out of the shadows of old St. Patrick's Church, the Rev. James R. Cox, founder and presidential candidate of the Jobless party, today led the main body of his "blue shirt army" toward the Jobless-Liberty convention in St. Louis.

There was neither frill nor ceremony as the 200 automobiles and trucks rolled away with about 500 men, women and a few children, most of them wearing the overseas cap and blue shirt of their "army."

The rasping music of a small radio in the lead car, was drowned by the shouts and cheers of the "marchers" and a few hundred curious who lined the sidewalks in front of the church.

Communists distributed literature through the motorcade just before the starting signal was given, but these pamphlets were torn to bits by the "blue shirts," tossed into the air and fell like snow over the procession as it moved on.

Probably 100 automobiles followed the main body an hour later and others are expected to take up the trail tonight and tomorrow. Some left yesterday.

Recruits were picked up along the route and at Washington, Pa., and Wheeling, W. Va., where crowds lined the streets to cheer the motorcade.

Others are to be met at Cambridge, Ohio, and the "marchers" will spend tonight in Columbus, Ohio. They expect to reach St. Louis Tuesday. The convention will be Wednesday and Thursday.

The motorcade, like the convention, Father Cox explained, is to be self-supporting; there will be no "panhandling."

Some of the motorists carried food, bedding and other supplies.

Riding with Father Cox was L. C. Dean, Homestead business man, mayor of Coxtown—the colony the militant priest established in Pittsburgh for heads of families out of work.

The priest who led an army of jobless to Washington last winter, said before he left, the "convention will be the biggest thing of the kind this country ever has seen."

BALL IS EXPECTED TO GET FAST TRIAL

Hearing of Former County Treasurer Opens Today in Arlington.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

With electric fans installed in the courtroom, everything possible has been done to assure comfort for the hundreds expected today when the case of former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball opens before Judge Walter T. McCarthy in Arlington County circuit court.

While Ball faces an alleged shortage of $564,405.40 of public funds, said to be the largest alleged shortage in Virginia, he goes on trial today on an indictment charging grand larceny of $24,454.29 of State funds.

The State funds, which are alleged to be short in Balls' accounts, represent State license fees claimed to have been collected during January this year and which the law provides shall be turned over to the State not later than ten days in the following month.

T. Coleman Andrews, State auditor, and Collins Denny, jr., assistant State attorney general, arrived in the county last night. Mr. Denny will assist Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas in the prosecution.

Early disposition of the case is looked for as counsel for the defendant will not seek to postpone the trial, it is understood. A venire of 92 men has been called by Sheriff Howard Field.

3 Colorado Counties Without Radios.

Denver, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The radio crooners are wasting their time so far as three Colorado counties are concerned. The annual report of the State tax commission shows there isn't a radio set in Conejos, Rio Blanco or Teller County. The report is compiled from property listed by county assessors.

ALEXANDRIA WOMAN DIES, VICTIM OF GAS

Mrs. Ella Tutt's Note to Sons Said She Was to Take "Long Rest."

A party of friends, who were to take her on a motor trip, walked into the home of Mrs. Ella Tutt, 34, of Alexandria, yesterday, to find her dead of gas poisoning. All the jets of a gas range were turned on and the doors and windows closed, according to police.

A note, addressed to her three youthful sons, was found on the kitchen table near her body. It told them that their mother was going for "a long rest."

All members of Mrs. Tutt's family were away from home at the time of her death. Her two youngest sons, Earl, 8, and Billy, 12, left home Saturday to spend a month in the country with relatives. The eldest son, Garry, 15, left home early yesterday morning on a fishing trip down the Potomac River. Her husband, Leslie M. Tutt, had preceded her to southern Virginia.

Mrs. Tutt had arranged to be at the home of Mrs. Edna Taylor, 118 North Fairfax street, Alexandria, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning for a trip to caverns in the Shenandoah Valley. At 9 o'clock Mrs. Taylor and her husband, Dr. Edward C. Taylor, went to Mrs. Tutt's home in Braddock Heights to see what had detained her.

Mrs. Taylor found her body on the kitchen floor with the gas flowing from open jets on the stove.

A note on the kitchen table was addressed to "The Boys."

"I am going on a much needed rest," it stated.

Dr. W. E. Beattie, Alexandria, acting coroner, set the time for an inquest into her death at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

dents of farming communities and small cities near the Gulf of Mexico.

The dead:

At West Columbia—Henry Sugge, Mrs. Henry Sugge and Beulah Helen Sugge, their 8-year-old daughter.

Mrs. O. V. Read, mother of Mrs. Suggs.

Two unidentified Negro men.

One unidentified Negro woman.

Houston—I. L. Reese, sr., a carpenter.

A fisherman tentatively identified as R. Lewis Rossignol, formerly a Marine engineer of Jacksonville, Fla.

S. E. Fieseke, of West Columbia, Tex., and Ruby Seay, of Angleton.

Angleton—John Baggett, 24, farmer.

Mrs. William Dickson.

Freeport—The 6-year-old son of M. F. Briscoe, of Clute, near Freeport.

Edward "Lon" Hudgins, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam P. Hudgins, of Oyster Creek.

Unidentified Mexican baby.

Brazoria—Martha Morris, colored.

School Collapses.

Baggett was killed by flying debris as he lay ill; the Briscoe boy in the collapse of a school house where he and others had gathered for shelter; Mrs. Dickson was killed when the Dickson's farm home was smashed.

The Suggs family and Mrs. Read died as their home, on the edge of West Columbia, was lifted and hurled 200 feet through the air. The bodies were thrown clear, in a rain-soaked field.

The Hudgins boy was crushed by flying timbers.

No authoritative list of the injured all through this area could be obtained. At least 54 had been given first aid treatment of one sort or another at Freeport and more at Angleton, but hardly a fraction of this number had serious injuries. Physicians kept no records in their improvised hospitals and the patients usually required only a patch or a bandage.

Odd Quirks of Storm.

Odd quirks of the storm came to light.

Hazel Suggs, 17, of West Columbia, visited the home of another girl and remained there alone after its occupants had fled in terror. This morning she learned of the death of her parents, her grandmother and sister.

Ira Bell and his family lived just a little distance from the Suggs home. Bell, his wife and four members of the Crocker family, J. W., Frank, Bob, and Pauline Crocker, were together.

The hurricane dashed the house to the ground and the six occupants were caught beneath heavy timbers, but all were saved. Bell tossed off the timber that imprisoned him and pulled the others from beneath. They attempted, then, to stand by clinging to protruding timbers, but were forced to lie flat on the floor.

Says Prayer Saved Lives.

"We prayed to Almighty God," said Bell. "We prayed and I know He heard us because He spared our lives."

Reese and the fisherman known as "Cap" were drowned when a shack in which they were staying near Hoskins Sound was washed away. The bodies were not recovered immediately.

Fieseke and Ruby Seay died in Houston hospitals of injuries received in the storm.

Service on American Airways routes between north and south Texas was disrupted. That on the Houston-Atlanta route also was stopped temporarily. The west-bound plane from Atlanta halted last night at Beaumont and returned East from there today, mail being sent to it from Houston by motor car.

Service on all American Airways lines in Texas, however, was resumed this afternoon.

Rice, corn, and cotton crops were damaged greatly. Wharton, Tex., called "The Forest City," was almost treeless.

In the oil fields at Boling and New Gulf districts were scattered about. Many unemployed persons found occupation repairing storm damage. It was estimated weeks would be required for the work.

An accurate estimate of damage in the storm area probably can not be made for many days, if at all, but it was known to be tremendous, with the greatest losses incurred by cotton, rice and corn planters.

Appeal for Aid.

Alex Kolesnikevic, bus driver who left Freeport, a Gulf town, before the storm had done its full work, arrived here with an appeal from the mayor for Red Cross aid, and National Guardsmen to protect property.

W. A. Paddock, chairman of the Red Cross organization here, said he would ask assistance from headquarters at St. Louis.

The mayor, Ike Goldenberg, sent word that no one had been killed at Freeport, but many persons were injured and property damage was heavy. Kolesnikevic said few houses remained standing in Angleton, and the same condition existed in Velasco and Freeport.

From Huntsville, Lee Simmons, manager of the Texas prison system, expressed concern for the situation at the Clemens and Retrieve prison farms. He said apparently both had been directly in the path of the hurricane and he had been unable to communicate with them.

Five Others Near Death.

Physicians had little hope for the recovery of five of the injured, Mrs. W. M. Grah, Mrs. T. E. Sennett, and Mrs. Claude Polle, all living near Freeport; Ruby Seay, 16, and William Dickson, husband of the dead woman, both of Angleton.

After hours of attempts to resume communication with the camp of the Thirty-sixth Division, Texas National Guard, at Palacios, where several thousand men were training, Malvin Chun, amateur operator at Radio Station W5LP, Houston, announced he had received a message from the camp saying personnel and property were safe.

Chun said the message was as follows:

"For the purpose of allaying unwarranted fear throughout the storm, request you advise news services all personnel and property at camp safe and sound."

The message was signed by Maj. Gen. John A. Hulen, commander.

Chun, who previously had been in contact with the Palacios Station from time to time, said he was told by the Palacios operator the wind velocity at the camp last night varied from 65 to 70 miles an hour for four hours and that Gen. Hulen was much pleased with conduct of his men.

Bishop McNamara Tells of Cardinal's Fight for Workers' Rights.

memoration of the life of a great citizen," the President concluded.

Rice Presides at Service.

President Hoover was loudly cheered by the assemblage when he arose to deliver his address. Fred J. Rice, State deputy supreme knight, presided at the services, which were opened by an invocation and closed with a blessing by the apostolic delegate.

The memorial was executed by Leo Lentelli and portrays a seated figure with flowing robes and right hand raised in benediction. It was erected on a small triangular park in front of the Shrine at Sixteenth street and Park road.

In his presentation address, Mr. Carmody said:

"In no more appropriate manner could the Knights of Columbus commemorate its own 50 years of active service for the church and in support of the country than by presenting to the Government and the people of the United States this monument.

The statue, he said, "memorializes the long and devoted services of Cardinal Gibbons to the two most essential elements in life—reverence and devotion to God as the Supreme Author of all the blessings, benefits and favors mankind enjoys, and the promotion and support of good government, with its resulting blessings of liberty, protection and pursuit of happiness."

Held Ideal Priest-Patriot.

The life of Cardinal Gibbons was epitomized by Bishop McNamara in the words: "The annals of the Nation reveal the name of no other man in whom there was a happier blending of churchman and citizen, priest and patriot."

"This monument," he said, "is a most appropriate memorial to one who for more than 50 years held his hand in blessing over the people of our beloved Nation. The Knights of Columbus see in Cardinal Gibbons the very embodiment of the principles for which they stand and by which they live, and in this year of their golden jubilee it seems most fitting that they should enshrine his memory in everlasting bronze."

The theme of Bishop McNamara was an exposition of the Americanism of the late prelate. He sought to impress upon the members of his faith, Bishop McNamara said, their solemn obligation to contribute a full measure of devotion to the public weal. Nothing pained him more than to hear it said that his faith was alien to American soil.

"It was a charge that as a Christian he might have suffered; but which as a patriot he could not ignore and he answered it in memorable words. 'I fear no enemy from without,' he said, 'the enemy I fear is he who, forgetting human nature and the history of Europe, would raise the question of another's religious belief and introduce strife and discord into the life of our country.'"

His View on Constitution.

The reverence of the late prelate for the Constitution was evidenced, Bishop McNamara, said, in the cardinal's statement: "As the years go by, I am more than ever convinced that the Constitution of the United States is the greatest instrument of Government that ever issued from the hands of man. That within the short space of 100 years we have grown to be a great nation, so much so today that it is rightly regarded as the first among the nations of the world, is due to the Constitution, the palladium of our liberties and the landmark in our march to progress."

The gruelling fight waged by Cardinal Gibbons for justice for the working class was recounted by Bishop McNamara. "He witnessed a day when labor was exploited as never before * * *." Among the many organizations to defend the rights of the oppressed none waxed stronger or wielded greater influence than the Knights of Labor.

Although the organization was accused of harboring the germs of anarchy and being revolutionary, Cardinal Gibbons answered the call for leadership, he said, "Staking his name, his leadership and the reputation of the church in America on a cause besmirched by calumny, he went forth to battle and to victory, the greatest, perhaps, in his long career, for he had justified the claim he had made for the church, that it was a friend of the people. How he rejoiced when two years later the great Leo XIII addressed to the world his famous encyclical on 'The Condition of the Working Classes,' called by Pius XI the Magna Carta of the social order."

The glamorous climax came to his career, Bishop McNamara said, on the golden jubilee of his priesthood when the leaders of the Nation, including the Vice President, Speaker of the House and the Secretary of State, joined in acclaiming him the first citizen of his State.

"To them he was not merely an outstanding figure of his time, he was the exemplar of a true American. He has fought for the rights of the lowly; he has done all that he might to bring nearer the day when there should be a more complete reign of justice in this land,' Theodore Roosevelt said."

The celebration was a fitting crown for the "slight pale figure in crimson robes who had sought no other return for his efforts than the satisfaction of having contributed to the greatness and happiness of the Nation," Bishop McNamara declared.

Immediately after the ceremony, Charles L. Conlon, of St. Francis Assembly, placed a memorial wreath on the statue in behalf of the fourth degree knights of San Francisco, Calif.

President's Address At Statue Program

In his acceptance of the statue of the late James Cardinal Gibbons on behalf of the Government, President Hoover said:

During the Great War and afterward I came often into personal association with Cardinal Gibbons in the organization of relief work for the destitute of Europe and in the development of our own Government war agencies after we joined in the conflict. I came to know him, not only as a great leader in his faith, but also as a man devoted to the widest of humanities and an American of burning patriotism. I can therefore join this ceremony not alone in my official capacity accepting this memorial which will beautify the City of Washington, but in appreciation of him as a man and as a citizen.

In his lifetime Cardinal Gibbons won the personal affection of thousands of Americans of every race and of every creed. Millions more, who knew him only through his writings and his public career, shared in this affectionate regard. He stood upon a gentle eminence. He was by every instinct a man of the people, yet he was always distinguished in any gathering for the radiant sweetness of his spirit and the kindliness of his wisdom.

Cardinal Gibbons carried his religion into the daily toil and complexities of life. He bore an active part in all the public concerns of his place and time. Movements for social betterment found in him an unfailing friend and practical counsellor. He championed the cause of labor in moments of crisis. His interest in the welfare of the Negro race found practical expression in the institute erected by him at Ridge, Md., for their instruction in the practical arts.

Cardinal Gibbons truly loved human beings—as he found them, in all their variety and with all their imperfections. He loved God, and to a degree that is seldom equaled he succeeded in carrying into the minds of other people the feeling that the truths of religion are really their primary aids in solving the perplexities of everyday living.

Above all, the impression he made upon the country was of the power that gentleness, kindliness and homely wisdom can have, not only to shape one's personal life, but also to influence the larger affairs of the community and the Nation.

It is of special interest to observe that practically his whole active life was lived in his native city of Baltimore. From this one place as its center, his effect upon his fellowmen spread to the remotest parts of the United States. His life was a remarkable demonstration of the power of a quietly noble personality to expand its influence to other people far beyond the range of his physical presence.

Conciliation was implicit in his philosophy of life, and was the method in his public acts. It was far more effective than violence of thought or action. Both reason and reasonableness were his building tools.

Cardinal Gibbons was always proud of his American birth and of his American citizenship. He was a patriot, proud of his country, zealous in his support of its democratic institutions. I am glad to accept upon behalf of the Government this commemoration of the life of a great citizen.

Victim Describes Terror of Storm

Freeport Man Tells How He Saved Wife After Home Crashed.

Freeport, Tex., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The story of Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Hill is enough to make anybody afraid of storms. They were taken away today from Freeport, where the hurricane struck with heavy force. Mrs. Hill suffered a back injury when their house was lifted and smashed back to earth again.

"We were about to eat dinner," said Hill. "My wife already had set the table; she'd cooked a lot of pork chops. About 7:20 o'clock the storm hit. It seemed like the house was lifted up about 4 feet in the air and dropped down again with a jar. It went to pieces. I grabbed my wife, but it knocked both of us flat. I picked her up and after a hard struggle I got to a steel bridge, about 100 feet away, over the Brazos River.

"We couldn't get to the top of the bridge because of the velocity of the wind. Charlie Bering (a friend), another fellow and my wife and I got under the bridge on a little narrow place. We stayed there for four hours. When it slackened up we went to the Texas Sport, a fishing boat. We lost all our possessions. I'd never want to go through another thing like that. The water was lapping at our feet."

K. OF C. FETE HEARS HYDE AND RITCHIE

Governor and Cabinet Member Give Principal Talks at Banquet.

The "Forgotten Man" was resurrected last night by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who told listeners at the golden jubilee banquet of the Knights of Columbus that "We have heard a lot of the man alleged to have been forgotten by the Government, but we have had little discussion of the man who has forgotten his Government."

Discussing the relations of the States with the Federal Government, he reminded his listeners that the "Federal Government has never usurped the rights of the States or individuals except when first advocated by the States."

His address preceded a twofold warning by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie against the investiture of superpower in so-called superment and the application of panic-born remedies to alleviate economic conditions.

Ritchie Warns of Super-men.

"Be careful," he said, "of that superpower which some would entrust to the supermen in government. For those in whom the power is placed are only men. I don't know where we can get the supermen to carry out the powers.

"Our Government has safely carried on through panic after panic by the self-reliance and self-determination of the American people.

"With fighting faith in the Constitution, which Cardinal Gibbons called the palladium of liberty, we are still capable of fulfilling the dream of American happiness and American prosperity."

"In spite of what Secretary Hyde said with reference to the duties of the Government to the citizens and of the citizens to the Government, I still think that little speech I made a few weeks ago in Chicago was in a good cause." The address he referred to was his attack on prohibition at the Democratic convention.

"It is time," he said, "to restore the rights of liberty and self-government to the States from whence they should never have been taken." He predicted that those rights would be restored in the not distant future.

Other Speakers.

Others who addressed the gathering in the Mayflower Hotel were P. Michael Cook, general chairman of the committee; Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody; Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore; William P. Larkin, past state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, of New York, and the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore. Frank J. Hogan, prominent lawyer, was toastmaster.

The convention will be called to order this morning after the delegates attend mass at 9 o'clock in St. Matthew's Church. Supreme Knight Carmody, accompanied by other officers of the order, will lay a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at noon.

REICH DEADLOCKED BY HITLER DEMAND

to this story, Hitler did not demand entire power for himself but, instead, asked only that he be accorded "leadership."

On the basis of this report it was pointed out that the Nazis, the Centrists and their respective allies might form a coalition government after the new Reichstag convenes at the end of the month. Such a coalition would be able to summon 354 votes out of the 607 in the chamber.

But there was no indication that Chancellor von Papen had altered his announced plan of going before the Reichstag with his present government and daring the members to unseat him.

GARNER GREETED AS "MY PARTNER"

He and Roosevelt Meet Near Guard Camp; Later Go to Hyde Park.

Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—On a narrow hill road above the Peekskill National Guard encampment, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for President, greeted John Nance Garner today as "my running partner." It was their first meeting in more than two years.

Running boards of the two automobiles touched as the cars met on the narrow road and Speaker Garner stepped into the governor's car, into a seat vacated by Curtis Bell, Mr. Roosevelt's son-in-law.

"Hello, Gov. Roosevelt, you look fine!" said the vice presidential nominee, who had driven from New York about 60 miles up the Hudson River.

"Hello, Jack. How is my running partner?" responded the governor.

"You look like you're in training for a prize fight," said Speaker Garner.

Gov. Roosevelt replied, laughing: "It's all right; everything's all right."

The governor had just finished reviewing troops of the National Guard. After the meeting they drove down to Peekskill and sat together on a platform while the corner stone was laid for a new National Guard armory.

They drove later to Hyde Park, the governor's home, for dinner, and then to Albany.

Mr. Garner will remain in Albany until tomorrow noon, when he will leave for New York for a conference with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

"I am willing to campaign any place the governor wants me to," Mr. Garner told reporters at the National Guard camp.

With Mr. Garner was Sam Rayburn, representative from Texas and the Garner presidential campaign manager before the Democratic convention.

Illinois Town Records First Holdup in History

Libertyville, Ill., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—This village had a holdup today. Only $80 was taken, but Libertyville lost its reputation as a crimeless town.

When two bandits sped through the streets in an automobile after looting the office of the Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois, residents watched them with amazement. They weren't used to such a thing. Police records showed it was the first holdup in Libertyville's history.

Trade Reform Urged By Methodist Prelate

Lake Junaluska, N. C., Aug. 13 (A.P.).—Bishop W. W. Ainsworth, of Birmingham, Ala., delivering the Sunday morning address at the Junaluska Methodist Assembly here today, said the future slogan of mankind must be "all for each and each for all."

The bishop contended industry must be reformed, that international debts must be forgiven and that capital and inventive genius "must work out some way to make the machine age benefit the masses on the basis of the supreme worth of human personality."

ROOSEVELT'S STAND ON SEA CHANNEL HIT

Snell States Democrats Are Deceiving U. S.; Swanson Raps G. O. P. Tariff.

(Associated Press.)

The cross-fire of political statements were resumed yesterday with Senator Swanson, of Virginia, attacking President Hoover's tariff stand and Representative Snell, of New York, renewing the charge that Gov. Roosevelt "wittingly or otherwise, deceived the American people" concerning the St. Lawrence waterway.

Swanson is chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee. Snell is Republican House leader and was chairman of the Hoover notification committee. Their statements were issued through the Democratic and Republican national committees, respectively.

"The President's statement," Swanson said, "indicates that if the Republican party is returned in power the provisions of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill will not only not be reduced, but its exorbitant rates increased."

Retaliatory Measures.

"All thoughtful persons must realize that the deplorable financial and industrial conditions of the United States and in the world have been largely produced by the provisions of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill which occasioned retaliatory tariff all over the world. * * * The passage of this bill brought retaliatory measures from other countries and has practically closed the markets of the world to America's products. There can be no recovery until these markets are again opened. * * * The Democratic party advocates the calling of an economic conference to consider tariff rates and reach such an agreement among the nations as will enable trade again to flow."

Representative Snell said:

"The attitude of the Democratic party and its presidential candidate, toward the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway is clearly indicated in the statement of the spokesman chosen by Gov. Roosevelt to reply to the recent charge of Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, that Mr. Roosevelt, wittingly or otherwise deceived the American people by reading into the Democratic platform a declaration favoring this waterway, which was not in the text adopted by the Democratic national convention.

"Mere Trifles."

"This spokesman for the governor and his party—Senator Gore, of Oklahoma—accuses Senator Dickinson and the Republican party of training 'their heaviest artillery on mere trifles.' It is not surprising that the Democratic presidential candidate regards the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway as a 'mere trifle' because it is well known that he always has favored the New York barge canal route from the Great Lakes to the sea and embraced the St. Lawrence project only after it was perfectly clear that the administration in Washington would successfully conclude negotiations with Canada to furnish through the St. Lawrence, the Atlantic Ocean outlet to the products of the farmers in the great Northwest."

Snell said he was "led to wonder what the people of Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, and the other great States of the West, who will benefit under the St. Lawrence development, think of his expression of the attitude of the Democratic party."

PIG IRON PURCHASES MOVE MORE BRISKLY

Railroads Anticipating Heavy Freight Business for Bumper Crops.

Cleveland, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Sales of pig iron and scrap have converted optimism into tangible business in the steel industry, said the magazine, Steel, with conditions better at Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, Buffalo and Toronto. Particular interest was reported on the part of small buyers as to forward requirements, which may be "the forerunner of better conditions next month," the magazine said.

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Railroad officials, anticipating large movements of bumper crops in the West, Middle West and South, said they contemplated calling furloughed men back to work. The Pennsylvania Railroad said 2,000 employes already have been returned to their jobs and other lines expected to add men as the crop movement started.

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The Chicago Association of Commerce said wholesale sales to clothing, arts, giftwares, jewelry and department stores was on the increase last week. The building trade in the Chicago area was reported improved.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The survey of the Federal and Illinois departments of agriculture indicated the best corn crop and prospects for Illinois since 1925.

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Meat consumption increased during the first six months of 1932 compared with 1931 by 38,000,000 pounds, William Whitfield Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, reported.

1,850 Southern Workers Back on Full-Time Jobs

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—R. W. Baker, president of the Blue Bell Overall Co., said today that full time operations have been resumed in the company's two plants here, employing 1,350 workers, and also in the Middlesboro, Ky., plant, where 500 operatives are employed.

For the last year the company has operated its plants four days a week.

COMMODITY PRICES REPORTED STEADIER

Heavy Shipments Continue in Unfinished Products, Figures Show.

(Associated Press.)

Greater steadiness of commodity prices was cited yesterday by the Commerce Department as the outstanding foreign trade development during the second quarter of 1932.

Continuance of heavy shipments of raw cotton, wheat and crude petroleum abroad, and a diminution of exports of automobiles, machinery and other finished articles, were noted as other developments. The increased volume of agricultural and crude mineral exports tended to offset the decline in finished manufactures.

The total physical volume of exports was 22 per cent less in the quarter than in the same period of 1931, the department said, while the imports were 16 per cent smaller.

Approximately half of the reduction in value of exports from $606,000,000 in the second quarter of 1931, to $383,000,000 in the second quarter of 1932 and more than half of the decrease in imports from $539,000,000 to $350,000,000 were attributed to the lower level of prices.

The downward trend of prices in the second quarter of the year, the department said, was retarded, and a number of commodities showed slight increases. Advances in import unit values were in sugar, crude and refined mineral oils, hides, skins, tin, raw wool, vegetable oils, cocoa, tea and linen fabrics, while for export they were in wheat flour, apples, crude petroleum, kerosene, fuel oil and lumber.

The department reported that United States trade with the Far East during June totaled $49,234,000, compared with $81,697,000 for June of last year. Imports declined from $51,781,000 in June, 1931, to $28,740,000 in June of this year. While the decrease was attributed in a large measure to a sharp decline in prices for the Orient's raw materials and to prevailing manufacturing conditions in this country, the department said a considerable part was traceable to disturbed conditions in the Far East.

Private Funeral Will Be Held For Widow of Confederate Tomorrow.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Dora L. Rogers, 87, widow of Capt. W. A. Rogers, Confederate veteran, who died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Louis B. Owsley, at 2347 S street northwest.

ments for the traveling and miscellaneous expenses, and it will also be possible to avoid the remainder of the apparent deficit by not filling vacancies when they arise, unless absolutely necessary, and by starting all new appointees at the minimum of their respective grades," he said.

Mr. Mitchell added that no funds will be transferred outside any of the three bureaus—prohibition, investigation and prisons—to bring about the reduction. He pointed out that the Bureau of Prisons alone last year saved and turned back to the Treasury $1,000,000.

"Unlike some of the other departments," he said, "reduction in our appropriations has not been accompanied with any reduction in the function or work of the department. There has been no reduction by Congress in the civil litigation of the Government.

"On the contrary, during the last session there has been enacted the usual grist of measures granting jurisdiction to the Federal courts to entertain claims against the Government, and the public building program has enlarged rather than reduced the civil litigation begun by the Government. Not only has there been no repeal of any Federal statutes, but new laws have been enacted defining new offenses against the Government."

Although "administrative" furloughs apparently can not be avoided in most of the five departments hit by Congress, State and Interior departments are said to be considering retrenchment methods similar to those invoked by Mr. Mitchell to avoid further personnel hardships.

Self-Paying Radio Drive G. O. P. Aim

Nutt Proposes $5 and $10 Program Membership for Campaign.

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A plan to make the Republican radio campaign pay for itself was announced tonight by Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the national committee.

An organization to be known as the National Radio League will be formed, Nutt said, for the double purpose of "stimulating interest in listening to the committee's radio programs and also of securing contributions from these supporters who listen in."

Family memberships for $10 and single memberships for $5 will be solicited, Nutt announced.

"It will be an important auxiliary of the treasurer's department," he said.

NO DRY LAW LET-UP, MITCHELL ASSERTS

Attorney General for Rigid Enforcement as Long as Statute Is on Books.

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Mitchell asserted yesterday that so long as prohibition remains on the statute books there will be no relaxation of enforcement efforts, regardless of proposals for changes in the law.

In a circular to United States attorneys, enforcement officers and other departmental chiefs throughout the country, Mitchell termed such a course "unthinkable," and said it "would produce chaos and an orgy of uncontrolled excesses."

"Both major political parties are pledged to submit to the people proposals to amend the constitutional provisions respecting the liquor traffic," the Attorney General said.

Some Urge Laxity.

"The suggestion has already been openly made to the Department by those who should know better, that because some changes in the prohibition system are under discussion and may be adopted, the Department of Justice should relax its efforts to enforce the existing laws. Such a course is unthinkable. It is our duty to take the law as we find it and enforce it as it stands.

"Aside from his rigid view of official duty, there are other reasons which must appeal to every thoughtful citizen truly interested in the public welfare. So long as the present constitutional and statutory provisions remain in effect, it is impossible for State government to legalize and regulate liquor traffic. To relax in the enforcement of the Federal law without substitution of any lawful State control, would produce chaos and an orgy of uncontrolled excesses. Regardless of one's views on prohibition, there should be no difference of opinion on this point."

Follows Hoover Speech.

Mitchell's statement attracted particular attention, coming as it did a few days after President Hoover's acceptance speech in which he proposed that the prohibition problem be turned over to the States for local solution with constitutional protection against the saloon and against wet encroachments upon States wishing to remain dry.

With the exception of the two paragraphs on prohibition, Mitchell's circular dealt with methods of achieving economies within the Department.

Walker May Seek Albany Injunction

Would Require Roosevelt to Delay Decision Until Legality Is Sure.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—John J. Curtin, chief counsel to Mayor James J. Walker, said tonight that before the present hearing is over he may go into the courts and demand an injunction requiring Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to withhold his decision until the legality of the proceedings is established.

Later he explained such action was being considered only in the event Gov. Roosevelt did not permit the mayor to call the witnesses on whose testimony Samuel Seabury based his "conclusions," which form the basis of the hearing before the governor.

It is the contention of the mayor's counsel that the procedure followed by Gov. Roosevelt in hearing charges on which is based a demand for Walker's removal is illegal. This illegality is alleged because the governor has admitted as evidence the records, including testimony and evidence, of the Hofstadter legislative committee.

Salvage Workers Towing Niobe.

Kiel, Germany, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Salvage workers began today the work of towing the wreck of the German naval training ship Niobe to shallow water, where it will be possible for divers to recover the bodies of the victims. The Niobe went down last month with a loss of 69 lives. If possible she will be towed to Kiel.

Pollard, Byrd, Swanson and Other Chiefs Will Meet in Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The State central Democratic committee will meet here tomorrow night to put in motion the party's campaign in support of national and congressional nominees.

Harry Flood Byrd, former governor and national committeeman who recently conferred with the presidential nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and J. Murray Hooker, State chairman who has discussed campaign strategy with James A. Farley, national party chairman, will address the committee.

Among other prominent Democrats who will be present are Senator Claude Swanson, Gov. Pollard and possibly Senator Carter Glass, who has been confined to his home because of a slight illness.

Paraguay to Hold Own, Says Leader

Calls War Absurdity, but Fight Would Precede Capitulation.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—President-elect Eusebio Ayala told the Associated Press today that even though he considered war over the Gran Chaco region an "impossibility," Paraguay would not capitulate to Bolivia without a struggle.

As proof of a pacific spirit, however, he pledged that his first act on assuming office tomorrow would be to ask the Chamber of Deputies to ratify "unreservedly" the conciliation treaty signed in Washington in 1929.

"Meanwhile, although we continue expectant, mobilization proceeds because it is unavoidable, due to Bolivian aggressions which wound our national dignity, hurt our territorial sovereignty and destroy the equilibrium of the nation's economic life."

DISTILLER WILL GIVE STOCKHOLDERS RUM

Foreseeing Change in Law, Company Plans Bonus, Aged 15 Years.

New York, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—The National Distillers Products Corporation, foreseeing a change in national prohibition laws, today ordered a distribution to stockholders, in 1934, of a large part of its whisky stocks.

The company, which has operated successfully since the eighteenth amendment became effective in those States permitting distribution of medicinal whisky, will give 12 quarts of whisky to every holder of five shares of its stock, on October 1, 1934. The stockholders thus favored will be of record on September 15, 1934.

Seton Porter, president of the company, explained today the company's position in relation to its long-stored stocks of spirits.

The company prospectus calls attention to the fact that the sale and transfer of warehouse receipts for the whisky through which the distribution may be made, are legal under the terms of the Volstead law. The warehouse receipts will be honored upon payment of Government taxes by the owner, and the holder will be required to pay $4 a case for the product, for bottling and casing, plus storage charges dating from October 1, 1932.

(United Press.)

A high official of the Department of Justice last night saw nothing illegal in the action of the National Distillers Products Corporation ordering a distribution of some of its surplus whisky stock as a "dividend" to shareholders of September 15, 1934, record.

This official, who asked not to be quoted, warned, however, that distribution of the "whisky bonus" will be decidedly illegal if the eighteenth amendment is in effect on the scheduled distribution date, more than two years hence.

Ritchie Asked to View Rockville Fair Exhibits

An invitation to Governor Ritchie to attend the Rockville, Md., Fair was extended to him last night by Clarence L. Gilpin, president of the Montgomery County Agricultural Society.

The fair, to be featured by a beauty contest and free wrestling matches by professionals, opens Wednesday with a pony show and race for children. Many Washingtonians have entered dogs in a show which will be held under auspices of the American Kennel Club.

Repeal Moves Opposed By Society of Freinds

Resolutions opposing all efforts to repeal the eighteenth amendment were adopted at a meeting last night of the Society of Friends at 1811 I street northwest.

Members of the society were urged "to use their utmost influence to secure the election to public office of those who will work for the retention of the amendment and for effective law enforcement."

ALLIED FORCES, DRY GROUP, FOR HOOVER

of ratification as untried and without safeguard against misrepresentation and corruption. Also, we oppose any interference with the initiative, and the responsibility of Congress in the matter of amendments to the Constitution.

"Our indorsement of President Hoover is based upon the belief that, in contrast with Gov. Roosevelt, his election will safeguard the gains made under prohibition, will move toward the elimination of existing evils resulting from nonobservance and nonenforcement in some communities, will prevent naked repeal and the return of the saloon system, will not commit any public officer or candidate to any policy of repeal or modification against his own conscience or the sentiment of his constituents, and will confirm the principle of Federal control for a national problem.

To Fight Wet Representatives.

"In support of this program, the allied forces will conduct an aggressive campaign for the election of senators and representatives, whether they be Democrats or Republicans, who are against repeal and the re-establishment of the old liquor traffic. Our relation to each campaign will be determined by the conditions and circumstances of the individual case.

"The formal action of the executive committee confirms a Nation-wide vote, by letter and telegram, in which 205 members of the national executive committee and other outstanding supporters of the allied forces participated. Every State and the District of Columbia was represented in this poll, which immediately followed Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance.

"One hundred and eighty-seven of the 205 voted that the allied forces should support Mr. Hoover. This conclusion carried every section of the country.

Among Those Participating.

"Among those participating in the action are: Willis J. Abbott, Boston; Mrs. Richard C. Cabot, Cambridge, Mass.; Col. Patrick H. Callahan, Louisville; Dr. T. N. Carver, Harvard; George Dayton, Minneapolis; Dr. Henry W. Farnam, Yale; Robert P. Hyams, New Orleans; Robert Garrett, Baltimore; Richard Lloyd Jones, Tulsa; Hon. Joshua Levering, Baltimore; Dr. John R. Mott, New York; J. Tom Owens, Dallas; Fred D. Parr, San Francisco; Col. Raymond Rabins, Chicago; Richard H. Scott, Michigan; Fred B. Smith, New York; Coach Alonzo Stagg, Chicago; Coach Fielding Yost, Michigan.

"The allied forces are not officially associated with any other group though they have with all others a common objective in support of prohibition and law enforcement. During the first year they have enrolled more than a million and a half men and women in support of the eighteenth amendment, of whom half a million are young men and young women in the allied youth department.

"Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, of Washington, D. C., is chairman of the department of allied women, Arthur T. Morey, of St. Louis, is chairman of the department of allied business men, and Fred Stripp, jr., of the University of California, is chairman of allied youth. The national campaign of allied forces is already launched."

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:40 p. m., from 6 p. m. to 7:10 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p.m.

The planetary aspects of August 15 denote considerable worry, as well as excitement. Not much solid work will be accomplished, nor can many definite results be achieved. In the evening, conditions promise to be calmer and more settled. Such affairs will be attended with success.

A child born on this August 15 will have a bright and cheerful disposition. It will shine more at sports than at study, although it will be quick to learn. As it matures, its sound common sense will save it from many pitfalls, and the practical side of its nature will ensure for it a career of safety, if not one of brilliancy.

Born on August 15, you have been endowed by the Fates with many advantages. You have an active brain, a quick mind and an agreeable disposition. You conceive ideas very rapidly, but, unfortunately, drop them before they have had time to generate. You are long on schemes and plans, but short on work and results. Your outlook is always optimistic; even when your cherished dreams fail to materialize, others are immediately conjured up by you, and the early ones are soon forgotten.

Versatility is another of your assets. You can, figuratively speaking, turn your hand to anything. You would do better to specialize in one line of endeavor. It never pays in the long run to be a jack of all trades and master of none. You, too, are easily adaptable, and environment does not mean much in your short life. Pleasing in manner, entertaining in conversation, possessing some few social graces, you always create an excellent impression in social circles. Only those who know you well and intimately realize how much you lack in stability and solidity. In the home, you may not be much of a breadwinner or breadmaker; when you are around, though, there will always be lots of fun, amusement and laughter.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Seville, Spain, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Today's outstanding echo of last week's monarchist revolt was a revolutionary party demonstration against the Socialist majority of Congress, which was accused of "offering cover to many monarchists." The police dispersed the manifestants without casualties.

Vatican City, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Pope Pius today approved a decree of the Congregation of the Sacraments ordering bishops throughout the world to institute more rigorous procedure in ecclesiastical matrimonial courts and to make a periodical report on these courts to the congregation.

Geneva, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler's National Socialist movement in Germany was the cause of considerable concern to leaders of the first world Jewish conference, which convened today with nineteen countries represented. The Hitler movement was attacked as anti-Semitic. Two American delegates, Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the American Jewish Congress, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, condemned anti-Semitism as a relic of barbarism.

Bombay, India, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—A snake leaped from a tree to a ferry boat near Kolhapur today, causing the passengers to rush to one side of the boat, which turned over and drowned approximately 100. The accident occurred on a flooded river, which raised the water level to a point near the tree.

Munich, Germany, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Three tourists, believed to be Germans, fell 800 yards into a ravine today while attempting to scale Great Glockner, highest peak of the Austrian Alps. Rescue parties were attempting to aid them, but they were believed to have been killed.

Reading, England, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Flight Lieut. G. H. Stainforth, famous British Schneider Cup flier who set a world speed record of 408.8 miles an hour, required all his flying skill today to escape a crash. While maneuvering over Reading, the flier lost his propeller at 10,000 feet and was forced to glide his plane 14 miles to make a safe landing.

Quetta, Baluchistan, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Capt. T. Yates-Benyon today claimed a world record for driving 6,803 miles in 33 days. He started out July 9 in an automobile in an effort to beat the liner Manora from London to Bombay. Many delays frustrated his effort to beat the ship and he was forced to abandon the venture.

London, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Another large reduction in the dole to British unemployed was forecast today by the Sunday Dispatch. The newspaper said the action would be taken after Parliament reassembles in October, and would be based on the majority recommendations of the royal commission which for a year has considered the problem of making unemployment insurance self-supporting.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., To Visit Mrs. McCormick

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The condition of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who is seriously ill, is "unchanged," her physicians said today. With the exception of members of her family, visitors have been denied her. Her friends said they did not expect her to recover.

They said they understood her brother, John D. Rockefeller, jr., planned to come to her bedside. Her children, Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard and Fowler McCormick, accompanied their father, Harold F. McCormick, to the sick room today. The elder McCormick, divorced from his wife, returned from California last week. Another daughter, Mrs. Max Oser, is hurrying to the bedside from her Switzerland home. She will dock in New York Tuesday.

Montana Catholic Bishop Dies.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Bishop George J. Finnigan died here today of heart trouble. He had been Catholic Bishop of the Diocese of Helena for five years. He was 47 years old.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Rose pink crepe ribouldingue makes a lovely semiseason dress suitable for early autumn afternoons. (Courtesy of Jane Regny, Paris).

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Costume jewelry is as interesting as ever—maybe a little more so, depression and all, because of the amusing collarless vogue that is becoming more and more popular. Wearing a dress without a collar makes one instinctively turn to a necklace—and turning to a necklace makes one wonder what is going on in the novelty jewelry world!

Rose quartz is worth looking into. I adore it—but somehow, my string of real quartz stays in the jewelry box, probably because I so seldom have the chance to wear it, save with tea gowns and negligees. Now I have discovered 'tis because it isn't combined with black, or wine red, or porto . . . 'course I always knew it was too pale to flatter my complexion, but the jewelers are one step ahead of me, and are showing me what to do with it to make it flattering. Especially when rose quartz is combined with garnets or carnelians, it is chic, strange though this sounds. And when thus combined, this is a lovely and new and awfully smart jewelry to wear with all fall colors—all browns and reds, black even.

Next, gray-blue pearls are new. Or blue-gray, as you please. Despite the fact that gray-blue pearls are really not so very expensive, they have a way of looking so! And, oddly enough, they are chic with black, white or almost any color except brown—in the costume, I mean. Speaking of pearls, they go on and on! Pink, blue, green, yellow, orchid and cream—are the color tones in the order mentioned, which are preferred in pearls. And one tells the value of artificial pearls these days by their clasps and settings, rather than by anything the untrained eye can see in the pearls themselves, so well are they made.

'N' I must tell you about sports jewelry manana!

* * * *

Rosy-red crepe called riboulding ue makes a delightful dress just sent me to sketch for you, from Jane Regny, Paris. No, sil—she didn't send me the dress! Just the "croquis," which means the rough sketch of it—for me to draw in my own way. There it is—and I'm selecting a tricolor jewelry ensemble to suggest as suitable to wear with it. This tricolor is very smart in costume jewelry—necklace and bracelet of colored china beads in rose pink, deep, rich blue and silver, with cylinders in cartwheel effect to contribute a special sports effect. Like it?

* * * *

I know you're wondering about the short sleeves on this dress. Yes, short sleeves will still be worn on the occasion frock—now that long gloves are so inexpensive. And this is exactly the smart fall costume, worn with a fur, which is neither summer nor winter wear—but new and chic and what one needs on cooler yet not cold autumn days.

* * * *

One pajama suit at least you must have! There's nothing to it, either, if you make the trousers from the leaflet showing you how to make my very own, favorite pajama trousers. Then there is a blouse, one of all those that I have worn for all these years, which lasts in style year in and year out—and is absolutely simple to make, and which is most becoming and lovely. Chances are you can make the blouse from something you have already on hand—better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet and see for yourself. I'll just bet you will be glad, if you ever make my favorite pajama suit!

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

KEEPING COOL IN HOT WEATHER.

WHAT are the facts about the advisability of using fans in hot weather?

Currents of air are cooling, provided they promote evaporation or throw against the skin air that is cooler than the skin itself. They are pleasant in hot weather if they cause a sensation of coolness or of cooling. Whenever they fail to produce one or more of these effects they may cause discomfort, at least. Therefore, fanning may cause either comfort or discomfort, dependent on the qualities of the circulated air.

One of the most efficient methods by which the body is cooled is the evaporation of sweat. When an ounce of sweat is vaporized it absorbs considerable heat. Most of this comes from the body. If the air driven against the body is very dry it absorbs the maximum amount of water and is, therefore, cooling and causes a pleasurable sensation. If, on the other hand, it is quite moist, it absorbs very little sweat, and for that reason may not be cooling.

In some fan installations the air is drawn over ice or through a spray of cold water. When there is no artificial ventilation, the householder tries for the same effect by flooding the basement floor with water, ventilating the house through that route. Insofar as exposure to ice and cold water chills the air the processes mentioned promote comfort. Insofar as they humidify the ventilating air they promote discomfort. From the standpoint of hot weather comfort the best place for air to slake its thirst is the human body.

The next consideration is the temperature of the fanned air. In very hot weather the probability is that fans will promote discomfort. On moderately hot days the reverse is true. On a very hot day the chance is good that the air drawn into a room will come from some place where the air is quite warm. Such air will not cool the body, nor feel cool. For instance, a man has come in out of the sun. He picks out a room that feels cool. It has been somewhat protected against the heat. He opens the window and turns on an electric fan. The probability is that the air that comes into the room has been drawn from the sun-heated outside or some reservoir of hot air. The mere fact that a breeze blows strong, or that a fan is driving hard, or that the air is felt to be moving does not make for comfort. The answer to the question, shall air be circulated? is: That depends on circumstances. If the air is hot and wet, blowing it about promotes discomfort. If it is cool and dry, it has the opposite effect.

The question is, where is the line to be drawn in the particular case? For that there is no general answer. Each man carries his own answering apparatus.

HEALTH OF ALIENS.

M. D. W. writes: I can not understand why the medical department of this country did not stop immigration years ago or take a special interest in the alien.

REPLY.

By "medical department of this country" I presume you mean the United States Public Health Service and the State and local health departments. The immigration laws are passed by Congress. The various health departments are administrative bodies and can not go further than carry out laws. For several years the laws have called for health inspection of immigrants at various foreign ports. The Public Health Service has been doing this work.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Interviewing the Screen Stars in Hollywood.

FOR years it has been my ambition to "hit Hollywood"—to see the screen stars there. And by "see" I don't mean on the silver sheet, but rather on the set, in their homes, at the beaches. In other words, at work and at play. I wanted to learn first hand some of the beauty secrets of the stars, in order to pass these on to my readers.

And, recently, a cross-country lecture tour took me out to California! There I lingered longer than I expected or hoped. I came, I saw and learned to love the screen stars more than ever. I talked with them, walked with them, went to their homes, interviewed them about their diet and exercises, their beauty secrets, their favorite clothes and colors. Studying them for weeks at a stretch, one soon learns that the majority of these satellites are much saner than some of the movies depict them, lead a simpler life than most people imagine, are thoroughly human but none-the-less always distinctive.

Inspiring Beauty Messages.

In my interviews, one question: "What beauty message would you give readers, something encouraging, inspirational" invariably brought the answer: No woman need be ugly.

Tallulah Bankhead feels that modern women do not need a beauty message, they know all the answers by this time.

Miriam Hopkins will tell you that beauty is not achieved or guarded without work and effort. Every day one must take time to give beauty a fair chance to flourish; which means diet, exercise and facial care. And doesn't it seem well worth the effort when one can achieve as much loveliness as this fair star?

Carole Lombard says encouragingly that it is within the reach of every woman to be attractive if she has the will power to train herself for it. Beauty is seldom an uncultivated gift.

Sylvia Sidney agrees that the modern conception of beauty was never more tolerant to unbeautiful women. Perfect features, figure or complexion are not at all necessary for a beginning, that all these essentials can be achieved.

Lilyan Tashman says emphatically that beauty is within the grasp of every healthy woman, but first she must be healthy.

And Loretta Young has a theory that no one needs to be homely; that any woman can be, if not actually beautiful, at least nice looking, by always appearing well groomed, smart in clothes and by playing up the best features. If a woman will study herself, and find the colors that are best, her best lines and most becoming hair dress, and select the proper makeup and use it well, she won't need to be afraid to stand up alongside of real beauties. But it takes patience, and study, together with the knack of unbiased self-criticism.

Isn't it all true and encouraging? Don't you feel you want to take yourself in hand and make the most of yourself? Remember that while many of the screen celebrities were born beautiful, the majority of them have made themselves beautiful.

Write me your individual beauty problems, and I will be happy to help you.

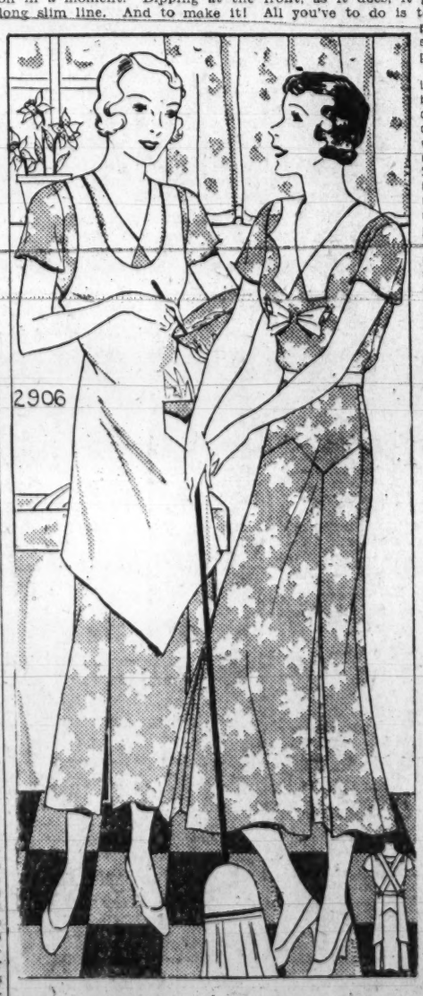
SMART HOME ENSEMBLE.

HAVE you considered your home ensemble for summer wear? Here's a darling. And the dress is so suitable for porch, garden or a little local shopping. The one-piece apron can be slipped off and on in a moment. Dipping at the front, as it does, it gives the figure a long slim line. And to make it! All you've to do is to attach the suspender straps, bind edges and sew the pockets in place.



A cool dimity in lovely flattering blue and white coloring made the dress. The trim was a cotton fabric with a linen finish in plain blue that toned with the dress. The apron repeated the plain blue cotton.

Style No. 2906 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material for the dress with 1½ yards of 35-inch material for the apron and trim.

Another delightful scheme is to make the dress of yellow pique with the apron of a striped dimity in yellow, green and soft cocoa brown tones. Trim the dress with the striped material and use a cocoa brown leather belt.

Cotton mesh dress with linen combines smartly for this ensemble. Printed dimity dress with plain dimity apron, tissue checked gingham with plain gingham and printed batiste with plain batiste are other excellent ideas you'll like immensely. A good-looking rig like this will lighten the kitchen chores. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our Summer Fashion Magazine shows all the new and interesting styles for vacation and every-day wear. Every page in color.

You can save the price of the book over and over again, and look your very best. Send 10 cents for your copy of our Summer Fashions. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

MASTERS OF BRIDGE.

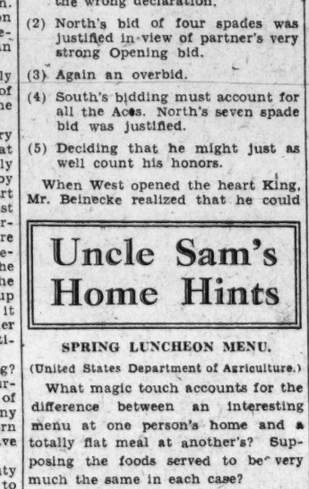
IN these troubled times, those who have heavy interests in Wall street might not be expected to have much time to devote to the play of Bridge. However, it is true that some of the leading operators and authorities on investments spend much of their leisure at the Contract table.

Mr. Walter Beinecke, president of John C. Paige & Co., during the day spends much of his time watching the sluggish ebb and flow of the prices on leading stocks as they are reported on the ticker. However, once the business day is over, he likes to go to the Whist Club, of which he is a member of the board of governors and vice president, as well as a member of the committee on laws, to engage in a few friendly rubbers. His weakest point as a player is optimistic overbidding. His strongest point is the deadly accuracy of his play.

The hand below, played by him at a contract of seven notrump, is a brilliant example of the manner whereby he redeemed slight overbidding with meticulously correct play.

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2NT(1)	Pass	4♠(2)	Pass
5NT(3)	Pass	7♠(4)	Pass
7NT(5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) Mr. Beinecke's two no trump bid was not justified, although the hand contained 4½ honor-tricks. A bid of one diamond would have been much better. The fact that a player holds all the Aces loses its significance when compared with the staggering sets which may be encountered if played at the wrong declaration.

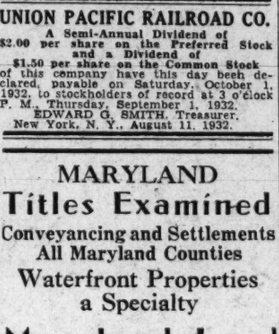
(2) North's bid of four spades was justified in view of partner's very strong Opening bid.

(3) Again an overbid.

(4) South's bidding must account for all the Aces. North's seven spade bid was justified.

(5) Deciding that he might just as well count his honors.

When West opened the heart King, Mr. Beinecke realized that he could only make his contract at notrump by the most accurate play. The next 8 tricks were taken with five rounds of spades and three diamonds. The tenth trick was won with the King of clubs in Dummy, leaving the situation below:



The King of spades was then led, squeezing both East and West. West had to retain the heart Queen, otherwise the heart Knave in Dummy would have been high. East was forced to choose between discarding a club and a high diamond.

An optimistic overbid was saved from disaster by accurate play.

Today's Pointer.

Bidding is mental play. Over-optimism in the prediction of the number of tricks makable by the combined hands is likely to be severely punished, unless the bidder understands methods of making tricks, for the lack of which the ordinary player would fail.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

SPRING LUNCHEON MENU.

(United States Department of Agriculture.)

What magic touch accounts for the difference between an interesting menu at one person's home and a totally flat meal at another's? Supposing the foods served to be very much the same in each case?

The table appointments? To some extent, although cost is immaterial. A bowl of garden or wild flowers, or a simple arrangement of candles and flowers, with homemade doilies and inexpensive dishes and glassware can make any table look dainty and inviting.

The cooking? Of course, good cooking and good seasoning are essential if one is asking friends to partake of food. But that's not all.

The method of serving? Very often. In many cases individual portions make the table more attractive and are easier to manage than full platters or vegetable dishes placed before the hostess for serving. All of these points together insure success.

Picture a spring luncheon table with a daffodil centerpiece and, perhaps, two or four yellow candles. Places set for eight, and when the guests are ushered to the dining room, a filled plate, adding to the decorative effect and simplifying service. On that plate chicken a la king in patty cases; baked potato on the half shell; a spinach timbale; molded tomato aspic jelly on a lettuce leaf, topped with a spoonful of mayonnaise; a cube of white cream cheese; a buttered roll or biscuit, and, if you wish, a few salted nuts in a little paper case. Everything on one plate, yet every food carefully distinct. For dessert there could be vanilla ice cream in sherbet cups or small glass dishes set on larger ones, with fresh strawberry sauce and small frosted cakes or cookies. Tea or coffee or chocolate or a fruit drink. Isn't that a tempting and delicious spring menu?

You can make very satisfactory patty shells on your muffin tins turned upside down. And if you do not have ramekins for the spinach timbales, just use plain brown custard cups or crinkle paper cups set in your muffin tins. Extra chicken patties, timbales and potatoes on the half shell are easily passed around the table on a large platter. The following recipe for spinach timbales is furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture:

Spinach Timbales.

4 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup finely chopped cooked spinach
1 tablespoon melted butter.
¾ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Hard-cook two of the eggs and chop them fine. Beat the other two eggs, add the milk, cooked spinach, chopped hard-cooked eggs, melted butter, salt, and pepper to taste. Pour the mixture into greased custard cups and cook in a pan surrounded by water in a medium oven for 25 to 30 minutes. When set in the center, remove and serve.

CHAMBER TO STUDY FEDERAL SALES TAX

Trade Body Hears Reports of Inequities in Present System.

(Associated Press.)

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States last night announced formation of a special committee on taxation to examine "the manufacturers' sales tax and other possible sources of Federal revenue" as a means "of curing inequities in the taxation system as set up in the last session of Congress."

In announcing the move, the executive committee said numerous protests recently had been received "from lines of business singled out for special excise taxation under the recent revenue act." It mentioned particularly "such industries as petroleum, rubber, automobiles and certain retail lines in which sharply increased tax burdens have tended to dislocate normal activities, with resultant threat of increased unemployment."

"The executive committee of the chamber believes that the present apportionment of Federal tax burdens is proving unsatisfactory from the standpoint of general economic well being," Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber, said, explaining, the executive committee" does not take a position with respect to any tax."

The special committee was instructed "to proceed at once with a thorough analysis of the Federal tax structure, identify the provisions which are causing the greatest practical harm, and to submit for chamber action, well in advance of the opening of Congress, definite proposals for changes in Federal taxes."

Huge Tank Car Blazes In Freight Train Crash

Derry, Pa., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A huge tank car, containing 100,000 gallons of gasoline, caught fire in the wreck of a 113-car freight train today, and while the populace scrambled to points of safety, firemen fought half an hour before overcoming the blaze.

The train was eastbound from Pitcairn to Altoona on the Pennsylvania's main line. A coupling came loose and the tank car, the eighty-eighth from the locomotive, came to a grinding stop in front of the passenger station. Flames, said by firemen to have been caused by friction, soon enveloped the tank. Police halted motor traffic, and pedestrians, momentarily expecting a terrific explosion, hurried out of danger.

Heffron Speaker At Catholic Guild

Talks on "Existence of God" at University Campus Program.

Edward Heffron, of the National Council of Catholic Men, spoke on the Catholic University campus yesterday on a program sponsored by the Catholic Evidence Guild. His subject was "Proofs for the Existence of God." He said, in part:

"In all being that we see about us, we see beginning and end. This being is unable to account within itself for its own existence, for if it could, it could neither begin nor end. If it could neither begin nor end, it would exist always, of necessity. Such existence is called 'necessary' being. But existence that can begin and end is called 'contingent' being. To account for the totality of contingent things, we must still find some other thing which accounts for the existence of that totality. In other words, contingent being can not exist unless it has existence conferred upon it by some other being—some 'necessary' being, some being that has neither beginning nor end. This 'necessary' being is God."

Mr. Heffron's discussion was in the series given by the guild every Sunday afternoon near the Harewood entrance to the university grounds. These meetings are open to the public. Questions on Catholic doctrine are answered.

4 Washington Men On Relief Board

Bishop Freeman, Chapin, Green and Payne to Aid Campaign.

Washington is represented by 4 men in the roster of 49 nationally known men and women drafted to serve on the National Citizens Committee for the Welfare and Relief Mobilization of 1932, it was announced yesterday by J. Herbert Case, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and president of the Association of Community Chests and Councils.

The local representatives are: Roy D. Chapin, Secretary of Commerce; the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Washington; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the American National Red Cross.

Object of the organization is to reinforce local social service organizations in securing adequate funds and to assist them in readjusting their programs to fit the needs of their individual communities. No national fund is to be raised. First function of the committee will be the sponsoring of a conference here September 15.

Noon Mass to Be Said Today.

A special low mass will be said at 12:15 p. m. today at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighth and N streets northwest, in honor of the feast of the Assumption. Music will be under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard and the Immaculate Conception choir will sing.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Signor de Martino Is Visitor at White Sulphur Springs

THE AMBASSADOR OF ITALY, Signor Nobile Giacomo de Martino, went to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to spend the week-end.

The Undersecretary of the Treasury, Mr. Arthur A. Ballantine, returned to Oyster Bay, Long Island, Saturday, after spending a short time in Washington. Mr. Ballantine is with his family, who are at their summer home, Council Rock. He is expected to return to Washington today.

Mrs. Wyant, wife of Representative Adam M. Wyant, arrived in Washington yesterday, accompanied by her daughter, Anne, and they have engaged a suite at Wardman Park Hotel for the duration of their short sojourn.

Miss Anne St. C. Smith's Engagement Is Announced.

Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, United States Navy, and Mrs. Smith have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anne St. Clair Smith, to Lieut. Joseph Martin Pickett Wright, United States Navy.

Miss Smith attended Mary Baldwin Seminary in Staunton, Va., and the Maryland Institute of Fine Arts in Baltimore, and has lived abroad with her parents for a considerable period. Lieut. Wright is the son of Capt. Henry T. Wright, Construction Corps, United States Navy, and Mrs. Wright. He graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1924.

The wedding will take place September 28 in Panama, Canal Zone, where Admiral and Mrs. Smith are living while Admiral Smith is in command of the United States special service squadron.

Lieut. Col. Norman L. McDiarmid, who is stationed at Governors Island, N. Y., is spending a short time in Washington, accompanied by Mrs. McDiarmid. They are stopping at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. David de Blasils, of Glensfalls, N. Y., has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Anna Elizabeth de Blasils to Mr. David Brewer Karrick, son of Mrs. James Lawson Karrick, of Washington and Stockbridge, Mass., and the late Mr. Karrick.

Miss de Blasils received the degree of bachelor of music from Yale University and was graduated from the institute of musical art of the Juilliard School of Music. For nine summers she has studied cello under Willem Willeke at Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge's South Mountain Music Colony, at Pittsfield, Mass.

Mr. Karrick is a grandson of the late Justice David J. Brewer of the United States Supreme Court. He is a member of the Yale Club of New York and of the Metropolitan and Chevy Chase Clubs of Washington. The wedding will take place the last of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Lawrie Back Home From Vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Lawrie have returned to their home in Sligo Park Hills, Md., after a month's tour of New York.

Mr. Lawrie is a tenor soloist and musical director at Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church and his wife is his accompanist. He began his second year at the church yesterday morning.

While in the North Mr. and Mrs. Lawrie appeared in a number of recitals. At Worcester, Mass., Mr. Lawrie directed the music at the Sterling summer camp, his tenth consecutive year as director.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Lawrie visited Vousins Island, in Casco Bay, where they were the guests of Dr. Rombert M. Pierce. They finished their vacation with a week at Newport, R. I.

The marriage of Miss Mary Adair Childress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Avent Childress, of Scarsdale, N. Y., to Mr. Oscar F. Moore, jr., son of the Rev. Oscar F. Moore, of Staten Island, New York, will take place October 6. Miss Childress is a niece of Mr. John W. Childress, of Washington.

The ceremony will take place at Hitchcock Memorial Church, Scarsdale, with the Rev. Dr. George H. Smyth officiating and the Rev. Alan R. Chalmers as assisting clergyman. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Childress is a graduate of the Spence School in New York. Mr. Moore attended the St. Mark's School and was graduated from Yale University in 1927. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity, the Yale Club of New York and the Richmond County Country Club.

'10 Top Companies' Shown in Control of Many by U. S. Analysis.

(Associated Press.)

Statistical anaylsis of 43 operating companies covered in the Power Commission's forthcoming report on holding firms was described yesterday by the commission as showing the 43 to be subject to control "in more or less complicated systems leading up to ten top companies."

The commission added that "a relatively small number" of these operating companies are licensed by it, citing the United Gas Improvement group, with 6 out of 79 companies reporting to the commission, and the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., with 6 out of 13.

The report covers approximately 600 companies, the commission said, included "in order to exhibit in true proportions the far-flung control which, through the process of holding company finance, may be exercised by a single company at the top."

Weather Fair, Man, 103, Will Vote for Roosevelt

Thomaston, Conn., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Edward Stevens, 103 years old today, is hoping that election day will bring pleasant weather.

A Democrat for years, Stevens said he would "certainly vote for Mr. Roosevelt" if the weather isn't too bad. He also declared himself as opposed to prohibition. More than a score of his descendants, including five great-great-grandchildren, attended his birthday party.

B. & O. Will Close Shops Two Weeks

Curtailments Ordered to Help Balance Budget of Carriers.

Baltimore, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Charles W. Galloway, vice president in charge of operations of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, today announced all repair shops throughout the railroad system will close Tuesday and remain shut down until the end of the month.

He also said trackmen will be put on a two-day working schedule for the same period. They have been working three days a week. Skeleton crews will remain in the shops to take care of running repairs.

The curtailments, Galloway said, have been ordered as budget-balancing procedures in line with traffic decreases. The announcement said that less than 5,700 men affected by a furlough of September, 1931, would be affected by the present order, due to permanent reductions in personnel.

W.C.T.U. IS BELIEVED LEANING TO HOOVER

Support of Roosevelt Viewed as Approving Repeal, Mrs. Boole Says.

Seattle, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, told by one of its convention speakers, Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Atlanta, that "those in public life who have betrayed us will be driven out," laid plans today to prevent repeal of the dry laws.

An informal committee has met to decide upon a policy of political action to carry out the declaration of Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the organization, that both the Democratic and Republican planks on prohibition will be resisted "every step of the way."

Delegates, while apparently unwilling to indorse any particular candidate for President, have begun to express a belief the convention must adopt a definite policy.

Trend Toward Hoover.

Some of them, while opposed to the Hoover plan of State control, believe election of Gov. Roosevelt will be complete approval of repeal, and therefore there is some disposition to support the President, Mrs. Boole indicated.

The committee believes the "policy of political action" must be to elect drys to Congress and to the State Legislatures with the understanding they will prevent the passage of any measures to repeal or change national prohibition.

Should this attempt fail, the strategy will be to seek to prevent State conventions from passing on repeal or modification measures because of the belief such conventions can be stampeded. The committee indicated it believed it would be better for the dry cause if any proposed changes are acted upon by the State Legislatures.

Sees Law God's Wish.

Mrs. Victoria Booth Demarest, of Norfolk, Va., granddaughter of William and Catherine Booth, founders of the Salvation Army, was a speaker at the afternoon session. She told the delegates:

"There are no substitutes for prohibition, just as there are no substitutes for marriage. It was God who put prohibition into the Constitution and only God can keep it there."

She said to blame prohibition for lawlessness and immorality "is like arresting my father in the early days of the Salvation Army for having been knocked down. Prohibition has been knocked down by its enemies and betrayed right and left by its professing friends, and then it is loudly blamed for the increasing lawlessness of the country."

Driving Club Fire Claims 44 Horses

Blaze at Boston Stables Causes $150,000 Loss; 10 Steeds Saved.

Boston, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Fire which destroyed the clubhouse and stables of the Metropolitan Driving Club today killed 44 horses, trapped in their stalls, and caused damage estimated at $150,000.

The stable of the Driving Club Associates also was burned. Three young men, who discovered the fire, were responsible for warning Superintendent Samuel James and his family and for the rescue of John Wollen, 77, cripple and night watchman, who was trapped in a corner stable, his escape blocked by a frightened horse.

Esther James, 18, daughter of the superintendent, led ten horses to safety through smoke and flames. A fright-maddened trotter reared and dragged her 20 feet. She was treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

King Sees Naval Display From Yacht of Il Duce

Taranto, Italy, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A hundred warships and four squadrons of airplanes completed Mediterranean maneuvers today by passing in review before King Victor Emanuel.

The king was aboard the yacht Aurora, which belongs to Premier Mussolini, who is in Rome. The crews of the naval vessels, lined up in formation, gave the king a loud triple "Viva il Re!"

Five Young Americans Arrested at Seville

Seville, Spain, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Five young Americans who are touring Spain, were arrested today for charging a locker door of the famous Alcazar Palace football style.

The police were afraid the attack on the door was associated with the recent monarchist revolt, because it was the portal to the rooms of Director Alfonso Laso de la Vega, who has been made a member of the special committee investigating the uprising.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A resolution calling for automobile parades in every important city of the United States next Saturday to promote a boycott of British goods and British shipping and insurance companies was approved here today by the Irish race convention.

New York, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—Officials of the Society of Jesus announced today a new college will be built at Manila, P. I., to replace the one destroyed in a $2,500,000 fire yesterday.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke will defend from the witness stand tomorrow the memory of her son Haden, for whose slaying Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British aviator, has been on trial since August 2. Mrs. Clarke is expected to testify regarding an alleged statement by Lancaster, a few hours after Haden was fatally shot in the home of his fiance, Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, in which statement the aviator was quoted as saying he did not know whether he killed Clarke or not.

Fitzgerald, Ga., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Hubert Dowling, 22, an aviator making his first parachute jump, was killed today as the parachute failed to open when he leaped at a height of 2,000 feet. Witnesses said he apparently pulled the cord too soon and his feet became entangled in the parachute.

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—There was no fear of the dentist's chair among the ancient Mayans of Central America. They beat nature by having cavities drilled in their teeth to make room for jade inlays. Examples of this 1,200-year-old vanity were shown today at the Field Museum of Natural History, where curators exhibited their latest collection of ancient Mayan art, industry and teeth.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A passenger was killed and the pilot was critically injured as a monoplane plunged into a clump of trees about 150 yards from the Providence Airport, in Seekonk, Mass., today. Roland Holmes, 36, of Rehoboth, Mass., was the man killed. Edward Abrams, 47, also of Rehoboth, the pilot, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries.

Relief Harmony Urged by Street

Cooperation of Churches' Welfare Groups Held Vital Need.

"Only by the complete cooperation of the churches and the charitable organizations can the human welfare problem of the National Capital be solved," said Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, speaking yesterday morning at the Brookland Baptist Church, Sixteenth and Monroe streets northeast.

"Originally charity was practiced by the church alone. But with the development of various credal and denominational groups, with the assumption of responsibility by the State for many forms of welfare work and the advancement of scientific methods in medicine, sociology and other fields, the tendency has more and more been for charity to be practiced by lay groups. The result sometimes unfortunately has been between social workers and the church.

"If every church member, in the spirit of religion in which he is a participant, and with the special knowledge which he, as a church member, ought to have of modern social work, would speak in accordance with those principals and that understanding whenever the opportunity offers, Washington would be a far better city from a human welfare point of view."

BORAH VS. BORAH.

With a high sense of his aloofness from the sordid realm of partisanship, Senator Borah is stumping the country in the interests of an international conference to save the world. There was a time when the Idaho solon did not deign to consider practical things. But today his head is in the clouds. All humanity troops before his gaze. He looks with compassion upon all races, all parties and all peoples, then issues his globe-circling proclamations.

When Senator Borah is in this mood it is a crime to remind him that he was not always thus. "It is with tomorrow," he says, "that my spirit wrestles". Perhaps, in the ardor of his present excursion into the stratosphere of theory, the senator has forgotten that he recently considered the same problems from a practical viewpoint. Or it may be that he does remember his erstwhile weakness and is seeking to purge his soul by flying to excess in the opposite direction.

No one is so adept in contradicting Senator Borah as himself. Hence, he should be allowed to speak for himself. On April 19 Mr. Borah, in speaking of schemes to cancel the war debts, told the Senate: "The propositions made at all times result in unloading the entire burden upon the American taxpayer without any assurance and without any reason to assume that there will be a betterment of economic conditions throughout the world." In his two recent speeches he has advocated an international conference to cancel the debts, disarm the world, and liquidate problems growing out of the war, as a measure to restore prosperity to the United States.

The April speech also contained these words:

> It can not be assumed, in other words, that these debts due to the United States are oppressing the people of the respective countries which owe them. The amounts are entirely too small. In addition to that, small as they are, the people of those nations do not themselves raise the money for them.

Only three months later he suggested cancellation of the debts on the theory that "humanity has suffered enough, and long enough, from the cruel and intolerant policies springing out of the great war." In the former address he quoted figures to show that payments on Great Britain's debt to the United States require only 3.75 per cent of the British budget; Italy pays only 1.41 per cent of her budget, and France, 2.65 per cent. In the latest address he pictured the war debts as the key to the whole problem of relieving the world from its staggering burdens.

Most astonishing of all is the senator's latest change of heart as to the obligation of the United States to buy disarmament from Europe and to restore prosperity to the world at the expense of American taxpayers. In April the Idahoan had not yet conceived his tenets of universal benevolence. He said:

> It is not within the power of the United States to readjust the reparations, and neither is it within the power of the United States to do very much more with reference to disarmament; with reference to land forces practically nothing. These are European questions and we could not place ourselves in an attitude where we could be of any real help to the European situation. It is a problem which Europe must settle for herself.

Now Senator Borah is stumping the country trying to convince the people that Uncle Sam should initiate a conference to settle these same European problems. The reversal of his former policy would hardly be more complete, and it certainly would be more consistent, if the senator should advocate American entrance into the League of Nations.

One is led to the conclusion that Senator Borah found the public to be in agreement with his April remarks in the Senate. Apparently the itch to be once more irregular drove him to concoct his latest plan of saving the world at the expense of American taxpayers. It seems safe to predict that the Senator will not be embarrassed by public support of his present scheme, and therefore, will not feel compelled to turn his guns upon himself—at least not until the next session of Congress.

A NEW PROSPERITY DRIVE.

When the first wave of depression broke over the country in the fall of 1929 President Hoover's first act was to summon business, industrial and labor leaders to the White House to formulate a line of defense. Ever since that time the White House has been the focal point around which virtually all counter movements against hard times have centered. The President has gone far beyond his duty as Chief Executive of the Nation, assuming active leadership of the private interests which are fighting against hard times.

The conference which President Hoover has called for August 26 is in line with this program. The reconstruction program enacted into law at the last session of Congress strengthened the financial structure and prepared the way for the resumption of business activity. Credit was made available, inflationary schemes were avoided and the national budget was balanced. Since Congress adjourned there has been a general upturn of commodity and security prices. Confidence is gradually being restored. A general attack "along the whole economic front" is now in order.

President Hoover has no thought of involving the Government in this work of stimulating economic forces. His acceptance address made plain that he will resist every effort to have the Government take over the functions of private industry. The task which he will undertake at the White House conference is coordination of the financial, industrial and agricultural resources in a general movement to create employment, to loosen purchasing power and set the forces of supply and demand once more into normal motion.

This effort comes at a time when a great majority of the people are convinced that the worst is over. Its effect should be further to increase public confidence and to give impetus to the economic forces of recovery that are already in motion. It is assumed also that President Hoover will sponsor the spreading of employment so as to bring back several million men to industrial payrolls.

In spite of the fact that this conference is outside of the realm of his official duties, it is doubtless the most important work in which the President could engage. The welfare of the Nation, as well as the political future of the President, is involved in the outcome of this fresh counter drive toward better times.

HIGH WAGES OR MORE WORK.

Reduction of railroad wages has once more become a subject of lively controversy. Last February the railway unions consented to the "deduction" of 10 per cent from pay checks for one year. At that time it was hoped that the original wage scale could be restored at the expiration of the agreement. But extensive railroad deficits have blanketed that hope. Plans for a 5 per cent cut, in addition to the reduction last February, are now being discussed.

Vigorous opposition to the proposed cut is announced by the American Federation of Labor. President Green calls attention to the fight for maintenance of wage scales during the last three years and declares that the federation "will hold its ranks against the destructive policy of wage cutting."

It is pertinent to analyze the results of the policy of maintaining wage scales as it has affected railroad employes. Railroad wages were at a high peak in 1929, having advanced rapidly since the period before the war. When the income of the railroads was sharply reduced in 1930 and 1931, they maintained the high wage scale. But economies were absolutely necessary to save them from bankruptcy. Consequently they dismissed a large number of employes. In 1931 the average number of railway employes was 400,000 less than in 1929. Approximately 200,000 additional employes have lost their jobs this year.

On the other hand, employes who were fortunate enough to continue working have sacrificed only 10 per cent of their pay for one year. Living costs have declined more than 20 per cent. The wages of railway employes still on the job will purchase considerably more than before the depression began. High wages are paid to some, while others are left with no income at all. In other words, one group is making actual profits out of the depression. Strangely enough, it seems to be this group that the American Federation of Labor is determined to fight for.

A similar situation exists in all industry. The average man with a job, even though he may have taken a pay cut or may be working short hours, has greater purchasing power than he had at the peak of prosperity. The purchasing power of labor has been seriously impaired because of unemployment, not because of wage reductions. It is time for organized labor to recognize this fact and to govern its activities accordingly.

Maintenance of wage scales was generally urged in the early stages of the depression in order to preserve the purchasing power of labor and thus counteract hard times. But when profits turned to deficits industries found it necessary to curtail expenses. It is now apparent that they made a mistake in paying high wages to some employes and dismissing many. Instead of augmenting the army of unemployed, they should have adopted the five-day week or other practical means of spreading available work among all workmen.

The maintenance of high wages for one group while many are workless makes the work of reconstruction difficult. Production costs remain high and millions are without purchasing power. Disproportionate wage scales thus defeat their own purpose of raising living standards among working people.

When organized labor advocates shorter working hours as a measure of rehabilitation it is on a sound footing. But with hundreds of industries operating at a loss it is useless to demand shorter working hours and maintenance of the same weekly wage. Workingmen as a whole would gain from a spreading of work, even though wages were reduced in conformity with the lower costs of living. As better times return it may be possible to restore high wages and retain short hours.

FAKERS HAVE THEIR DAY.

Several groups have taken occasion recently to warn the public against swindlers who are taking advantage of the depression to push all manner of nefarious trades. It is strange that the public is so gullible in times of depression. One would expect investors, buyers and the unemployed to be more wary during hard times. But the opposite seems to be true.

New rackets to fleece the unemployed are surprisingly numerous. For example, the Department of Agriculture sent out warning a short time ago against careless investment in the mushroom growing industry. Unprincipled promoters convince inexperienced persons that mushroom growing is an unexploited field where rich profits can be gained. The victims are induced to invest their money in mushroom spawn under the misapprehension that the promoter will provide a ready market and sometimes guarantee a safe return of the investment. Fabulous prices are frequently quoted. In most instances the would-be mushroom grower finds his capital wasted after an unsuccessful experiment. The department points out that in many localities the demand for mushrooms has been restricted and experienced producers are operating at a loss.

One other example may be worthy of notice. Fake "literary consultants" have come into prominence to fleece young writers. These pirates must be distinguished, of course, from the legitimate agents who operate in this field, performing a real service to writers. The fake consultants usually prey upon inexperienced persons who have had no training in writing and know nothing of the manuscript market. Such credulous persons pay for useless criticism and are encouraged to continue, even though there is no hope that they will ever be able to sell an article. When their money is exhausted, they have no consolation save the falsified praise of a literary racketeer.

The number of skin games practiced in the disposition of worthless "securities" is unlimited. Authorities in New York report that many millions of dollars have been lost in this way during the last year in spite of hard times. Some people who are afraid to risk their money in the stock market do not hesitate to fritter away their savings for wildcat stocks. Many people who have withdrawn their money from banks, feeling that it was not quite secure, have handed out their life's savings to crooks and fakers.

It is strange that the crop of lambs going to the shearing should be so large during a period of hard times. The most pathetic thing about this sorry business is that most of the victims are persons who have lost their jobs and are in dire need of augmenting their meager holdings.

The World's Oldest City?

From the Christian Science Monitor.

Tiahuanaco, whose famous Gateway of the Sun and huge monoliths are always pointed out as one of the features of the trip from Lake Titicaca to La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, breaks into the news under the caption of "The Oldest City in the World." Mr. A. Hyatt Verrill, in the New York Herald Tribune, tells of the first expedition in 30 years permitted to excavate in these ruins and sets forth the interesting conjectures of Prof. Rudolph Muller, the eminent German scholar, as to the age of the city.

Prof. Muller has guessed that the Tiahuanaco civilization dates back from 10,000 to 14,000 years. His computations are based on his own astronomical observations and the story told by the sundial used by the Tiahuanacans. A comparison of the two reveals how far the axis of the earth has shifted, and the extent of that shift, according to other formulas, gives him the two dates mentioned.

It is a city of mystery, too. Who were the people who performed miraculous architectural feats? Who used stones weighing hundreds of tons and kept them in place with bolts of solid silver? Who built the gigantic and grandiose temples, palaces and pyramids? Who carved the statues and monoliths and that facade of 112 symbolic figures dominated in the center by a figure of the condor god, or sun god? Although we do not know who they were, we know something of how they lived.

One of the fascinations and recompenses for the long and arduous work involved in excavations of this sort must be the stimulating and entrancing pictures that come crowding into the thought of the archeologist. In spite of the desolation and rarefied atmosphere of the regions lying at an altitude of more than 12,000 feet above sea level, Mr. Verrill envisions a great, flourishing civilization. "It is one of the true wonders of the world; a city absolutely unique. Nowhere on earth is there anything that resembles it in architecture, sculpture or culture."

If unified Italy was created anew partially on the traditions of the old Roman Empire, and modern Greece on memories of the age of Pericles, is it not conceivable that archeologists will provide, ere long, greater and stronger stimuli for arousing Bolivian Indians to new progress? This has happened, to a certain extent, in Mexico in the Indianist movement. The most eminent of Peruvian archeologists is a distinguished Indian, and many other Indians of Peru and Bolivia are delving into the glories that were Tiahuanaco and into the grandeur that was the Inca Empire.

Undoubtedly work of archeologists and publicists has contributed to quicken the stirrings of latent ambitions by these breath-taking and illuminating glimpses into a dark past.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

NOW IT'S CULBERTSON.

When I was but a little lad
I heard my dad insist
A system absolute he had
To play the game of whist.
But mother frequently confessed
She liked her own devices best.

Though little of the game I knew,
So young was I back then,
I gathered things which women do
Did not appeal to men.
And oft I heard my father say:
"My dear, you threw two tricks away!"

But times have changed. Now Culbertson
The women's love commands,
And I have grown to be the one
Who overbids his hands,
For Nellie mutters in my ear:
"You didn't have a two-bid, dear!"

No grudge 'gainst Culbertson have I,
I do not know the man,
But nothing have I done but sigh
Since first his vogue began.
And I'm fed up, while playing hands,
On Culbertson and his demands.

If You Can't Throw the Swimmer a Rope, Don't Throw Rocks

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is addressed to candidates.

Most of you are asking for reelection or promotion.

That means that you are office holders—that you have had an opportunity to show what you could do.

If you should lose your job, it isn't at all probable that you could find another in private life that would pay as well.

It is natural, therefore, that you should do everything within your power to win the support of voters.

But you can not win support by promising to end hard times nor by pretending to know how. No matter how intelligently you discuss public questions or how wise you seem, the fact remains that you had your chance and were unable to work any miracles.

If you could do nothing to make times good during your last term in office, it isn't reasonable to suppose that you have discovered a cure-all scheme since you began this campaign.

The people no longer expect miracles, by old office holders or new ones. They have lost faith in the law's power to end their troubles.

It is therefore a waste of breath to advocate this or that scheme to bring back prosperity. If you had the ability to save the country, you would have done it long ago.

But there is one thing you can do.

Most office holders, fearful of losing their jobs and driven frantic by the clamor of their constituents, feel that they must do something. Unable to think up a sure-fire plan to end our troubles, they support any wild scheme that is offered by party leaders.

Most of these schemes require the spending of huge sums of money. And since there is no money to spend, the adoption of such schemes will mean more taxes and more debt.

Here, then, is something you can do for us—and the only thing you can do.

You can pledge yourself to reduce expenses wherever possible, to support no scheme that requires the spending of money, to permit no increase of taxes or debt.

The people can save themselves if they are given a fighting chance. But they lose heart and hope when they are threatened with more indebtedness.

Don't promise to mend matters, for the people know you can't do it. All they want is your promise to do them no further harm.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

How Can It Be Done?

Christian Science Monitor.

Drys will appreciate Mr. Hoover's manifestly sincere desire to remove the evils of the liquor traffic "from this civilization by practical measures," but will want to know more exactly what those measures are to be. They will applaud his vigorous denunciation of the saloon, but will insist that a saloon by any other name may be just as active in pouring alcohol into men and women. Even those who consider resubmission wise will want to know just how the Federal power is to be made effective in prohibiting saloons. They will ask for some positive assurance that it will operate efficiently to prevent the flow of liquor across State lines.

The Last Resort.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It is written into the law that money made available for relief through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation can be provided only when States and their citizens have made every reasonable effort to care for themselves. It is a practical provision and one which fortifies and declares the conviction of most Americans that government must not take away too much responsibility from the governed.

The phrase "last resort" will be subject to many interpretations in meeting emergencies to come. Some States will be proud to bear their own burdens and will not admit failure to do so until the need is dangerous. Some will turn easily and eagerly to Washington.

Wet-Dry Solons.

Lorain Journal.

Yes, there's been a big shift in prohibition sentiment. A lot of public men who used to be personally wet but politically dry are now, they explain, politically wet but personally dry.

Issues Sharply Drawn.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Voters who like to call themselves independent—"free souls" who refuse to be bound to any political organization—are wont to declare in every presidential campaign that there are no essential differences between the policies and principles of the two major parties today and that it is simply a battle between the "ins" and the "outs" for the spoils and prestige of office.

This is not true. The issues that divide the parties are particularly plain this year and they have just been emphasized anew by Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance. The differences between the party platforms have been accentuated, indeed, by both presidential candidates' declarations. As usual, the candidates are making their own platforms, which will largely supersede their parties' official pronouncements in convention.

Hoover on National Defense.

Army and Navy Journal.

With a clarity that admits of no misunderstanding, President Hoover, in his speech of acceptance of the Republican nomination, stated his position in the matter of national defense. He sought no refuge in the fog of that much used and much abused word "adequate" which appears in the plank of the Democratic platform and which Gov. Roosevelt approved with whole-hearted emphasis in spite of the support he gave to a $1,000,000,000 Navy when Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Boldly the President said "I insist on an Army and Navy which guarantees that no foreign soldier will land on American soil." As strength is relative, he favors every arms reduction—and note this—which assures that situation.

With the principle sharply defined by the President, the services, as well as all those concerned in the matter of national defense, will be in hearty accord.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Veteran Favors Jobs Instead of Bonus—Says They Did Not Start Riot.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Being a veteran and having just read the letter published in your paper, written by Hinda Burke, I can not help but make some reply.

She mentions the "so-called" bonus army, the undesirables, and the lunatic fringe as being usurpers of our parks to the exclusion of the taxpayers. She also appears to be laboring under the false impression that these veterans who came here to ask Congress to give them what that Congress has admitted is due them were a group of unappreciative rioters bent on robbing the U. S. Treasury.

A great many of them had nothing to fight for, other than their country, and while they are not taxpayers to any great extent, would gladly lay down their lives for that country today if occasion should arise. Contrary to her belief, these men did not incite any rioting or take part in any riot other than to protect their families when force was ordered to remove them from the city.

Why did they not leave without force being ordered? Because they had no place to go to earn a living in this country for which they fought.

A solution? Yes. Do not grant a bonus, but give to every veteran an honest-to-goodness chance to earn a living for his family. If this is done I dare say he will not ask for more.

How can this be done? By filling every Government position by a veteran who can show that he is capable, instead of filling them with married women who have husbands to support them and in some cases where several members of one family are employed.

This is not a personal rebuke to Hinda Burke, but an honest statement of facts to all taxpayers who are under any false impressions regarding the veterans. W. J. M.

Death Roll Can Be Reduced by Punishment of Reckless Speeders.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: After reading some recent figures about automobile accidents—33,000 United States fatalities in a year—it seems to me that the press of the country should join in a constant condemnation of unlawful speeders and that the punishment for reckless speeding should be made much more severe and certain than it now is.

I do not think there is as much superspeeding, in proportion to cars in use, as there was a few years ago. But, nevertheless, it is far in excess of what it would be if civilization were as far advanced as we sometimes think.

The reckless speeder has no more sense of civic responsibility than any other common fellow, and his belief in his own importance is what makes him a dangerous nuisance. No doubt he is quite often a physical weakling intoxicated by the mechanical power at his command and, in fact, in many cases he couldn't foot it in a race around a city block without falling down in a faint. But like the proverbial fly on the periphery of the wheel, his feeling is, "My, how swift we speed," unaware that it is his car and not himself that is speeding.

Being on the street a great deal from day to day and thus noting the many homicidal chances taken by moron motorists, I feel very sure that there might be a noticeable reduction in the number of serious accidents in Washington if Police Supt. Glassford would start a special drive against reckless speeding.

PLAIN CITIZEN.

Objects to Importation of Outside Workers Who Deprive Local Artisans of Jobs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It seems to me that it is time for a strenuous complaint to be made respecting the action of the contractors who are coming in to Washington to work on the several buildings which are going up here.

These contractors bring into the District gangs of men from outside places, to the detriment of the local workmen who are thus deprived of work, when they are actually permanent residents of the District. In this way the District taxpayers are also injured, since we rent our houses to these workmen and their families on lease contracts, and the outside mechanics who come here only remain for the time the work lasts and then take their money back to their own sections, where it is spent to no benefit whatever to local shopkeepers, etc. These men live in cheap boarding places, or lodgings, and the mechanics who have homes here and have lived here for many years are unable to pay their rent because to unemployment they should have is given to outsiders.

How are we to pay taxes if we can not collect rents? How are our tenants to pay rents if the money which belongs to them for work on local buildings is given to outsiders, who should be forbidden to come in and take the bread from the mouths of residents of the District? E. N.

Paragon Who Saved $68,000 Out of a $70,000 Appropriation Deserves More Than Praise.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That naval officer who was allowed an appropriation of $70,000 for expenditure and returned $68,000 of the appropriation was efficiency personified. Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, commended him. He deserves more than commendation for such a saving during these times. What an efficiency expert that fellow would make! What the Government needs today is a few more men possessing such saving abilities. If they had an efficiency bureau composed of several men of similar ability, the United States would be out of the "red" to such an extent that there would be a large surplus in the old Treasury. No matter how you look upon this saving, the man who saved $68,000 for Uncle Sam deserves a lot of credit. R. C.

THE SONG TO A PLANET

I SING of the world
Tho' it's steeped in sin,
Insolvency
And synthetic gin;
It's broke and it's bent
And its gold is tin—
But it's a darned good world
For the shape it's in.

II.

Its commerce is shot
And its purse is thin
And its head goes 'round
In a dizzy spin;
It's as sad to see
As the play "East Lynne"—
But it's not so bad
For the shape it's in.

III.

It is sick and weak,
With a fever'd skin,
And its only smile
Is a sickly grin;
It is sunk by debt
To its battered chin—
But it looks quite swell
For the shape it's in.

IV.

It has shattered nerves
From the awful din
Of the creditors
With outstretched fin;
To Old Man Gloom
It's a little twin—
But it ain't so bad
For the shape it's in.

V.

It is in the rut,
With an aching shin;
It has darned few signs
Of a will to win;
It is black and blue
And it sobs, "Oh, Min!"—
But it's a darned good world
For the shape it's in.

Dial Flashes

ANNOUNCEMENTS conerning the new fall radio hours are beginning to find their way to the desks of radio editors all over the country. One of the most important of these is that the N. B. C. Music Appreciation Hour, conducted by Walter Damrosch, will be heard for the fifth consecutive season over the combined networks, starting Friday, October 14.

It was estimated that the Music Appreciation Hour had a schoolroom audience of 6,000,000 students last year. It is believed the series will be even more widely used during the next year. Copies of the 1932-33 Music Appreciation Course manual, as well as the students notebook, will be ready for mailing on September 1.

The script act, "Myrt and Marge," will be renewed on the Columbia network, beginning Monday, August 29. Myrtle Vail and Donna Mamerel will resume their roles of Myrt and Marge.

A musical program, called the "Musical Album of Popular Classics," will be heard over the Columbia network beginning Monday. Andre Kostelantze will conduct the series.

FRANKLIN W. FORT, of New Jersey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, will explain the operation of that organization during the National Radio Forum (WRC, 9 o'clock), tonight. This will be Chairman Fort's first radio address since assuming his new office.

Richard Crooks, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be heard in a varied program of songs (WRC, 7:30 o'clock), tonight, including "I Hear You Calling Me," "In the Gloaming" and Wagner's "Lohengrin."

H. V. Kaltenborn, news commentator, is traveling from capital to capital in Europe interviewing governmental and economic leaders, developing background material for his newspaper work and his broadcasts.

In Rome recently Kaltenborn was accorded the honor of a private audience with Pope Pius. Vatican City authorities invited Kaltenborn to inspect the Station HVJ.

"Danzon," the Cuban dance number that Nat Shilkret introduced on a recent edition of "Music That Satisfies," was written by Carl Kress, guitarist in his ensemble.

A group of Chopin's favorite melodies will be featured by Harry Horlick's Orchestra during the A. & P. Gypsies program (WRC: 8 o'clock), tonight.

South Dakota will be honored during the Parade of the States (WRC, 8:30 p. m.). Erno Rapee, who recently returned from a vacation at his old home, Budapest, will direct the orchestra.

THE summer heat does not prevent Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle from working overtime in his laboratory. He now has emerged with a revolving goldfish bowl to relieve old and decrepit goldfish from the necessity of swimming around.

OFFICIALLY there is no such thing as a team score in Olympic competition; hence no nation can be called winner of the games. The new Government-printed cook-book can not be read by the average American housewife, it is printed in braille for the blind. Western Colorado abounds with dust-dry oil shale.

U. S. Olympic Victories Greatest

America Won 8 of 16 Major Branches of World Games.

Gains Made by Japan and Italy Among 1932 Features.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The greatest athletic show of all time, brought to a ceremonial close today, ended with the forces of the United States victorious in exactly eight of the sixteen major branches of Olympic team competition.

Although the Americans yielded men's swimming supremacy to Japan's sensational team for the first time in Olympic history, the home-bred athletes left the far-flung fields of action with a greater assortment of medals and honors than ever before, gained during unprecedented flights of record smashing.

Competing, all told, before more than 1,000,000 spectators over a stretch of sixteen days, the pick of America's best track and field talent rolled up a staggering margin over the rest of the world, won the women's swimming, deployed successfully on the fistic and other scattered fronts, then concluded with a smashing triumph in rowing, gained by the California eight-oared crew.

Crew's Victory Dramatic Climax.

The last split-second triumph of the American college oarsmen over a powerful Italian eight on the Olympic lagoon at Long Beach yesterday afternoon furnished the dramatic climax of the games. As 60,000 spectators roared themselves hoarse, it looked as though Italy's boatload was about to fulfill its threat to snap America's winning streak in this classic event, but the Californians rallied in the last few strokes with just enough power to get their shell first across the line.

California's triumph, by a margin of scarcely a foot, or one-fifth of a second over Italy, with Canada and Great Britain close behind, concluded as thrilling a boat race as has ever been rowed.

The victory saved America's eight-oared supremacy by the narrowest of margins, marked the second straight Olympic triumph for California crew coached by "Ky" Ebright and clinched the major honors of the Olympic regatta for the home oarsmen. The United States took three of the seven rowing finals, also keeping its slate clean in the double sculls through the winning performance of Ken Myers and Garrett Gillmore.

Japan's Swimming Outstanding.

From the spectacular viewpoint of the games, California's rowing triumph and Japan's first swimming conquest were the standout performances. Over the stretch of Kaleidoscopic action, they shared the bright spotlight with such stirring individual feats as those of Juan Carlos Zabala, of Argentina, in the classic marathon; the dazzling foot racing of America's Bill Carr, the world record decathlon performance of "Jarring" Jim Bausch, of Kansas, and the great feats of the trio of American double winners—Eddie Tolan in sprints, Babe Didrikson in women's track and field sports and Helene Madison in swimming.

Two victories for the only Americans in the boxing finals, Eddie Flynn, of New Orleans, among the welters, and Carmen Barth, of Cleveland, in the middleweight division, gave the United States just enough points to nose out Argentina and South Africa for the fistic team title, the third gained by "Spike" Webb's gladiators in the last four Olympics.

By any system of figuring, all of which is unofficial, the United States stowed away the biggest share of triumphs and points for the tenth Olympiad, with Italy's surprisingly strong forces well established in second place.

Besides track and field, for both men and women; swimming for women, boxing and rowing, in the major sports, the Americans led the list in free-style wrestling, skippered to victory in yachting and took the equestrian team laurels for the first time.

Italy won three team championships, in cycling, fencing and gymnastics, besides contributing a sensational foot-racer, Luigi Facelli, win-

100,000 Watch Closing Ceremonies of Olympics

Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Leaving track, field and pool strewn with broken records, the 1932 Olympic games ended today as more than 100,000 spectators joined in a chorus of hail and farewell.

Down came the Olympic flag and out went the Olympic torch which has burned day and night during the sixteen days of the Olympics. The flag will fly again and torch will be relighted in Berlin in 1936.

The colorful closing ceremony attracted a great crowd to cheer the international visitors on their way and to swell the attendance for all Olympic events in all stadiums to more than 1,000,000.

The impressive ceremonies Olympique protocolaire, the victory ceremony, was given two score times as victors and leading contenders in swimming, boxing, rowing, riding, fencing and shooting were given their medals.

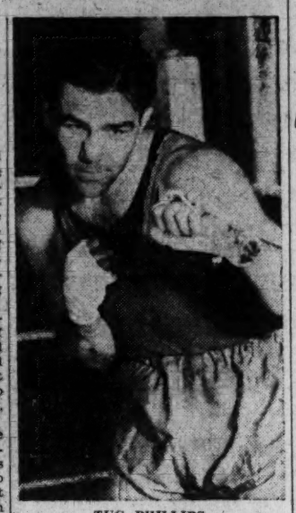
Reed Faces Collins Tonight In Feature Bout at Laurel

Bowen and Phillips to Clash on Twin City Fight Program



TUG PHILLIPS.

TWO District favorites, one a local product, will disport their fistic wares in featured bouts of a 30-round boxing program tonight at Twin City Arena, in Laurel, with the king of boasters, Jimmy Reed, throwing his fists against Ray Collins, of Erie, Pa., and flashy Ray Bowen pitting his skill against another scrapper from the Erie stable, Tug Phillips.

Reed, whose twelve years of fighting has carried him against some of the best punchers in the country, will step eight rounds with the rugged Collins, while Bowen, seeking a shot at boastful Jimmy, is scheduled to go the same distance with Phillips, a native of Charleroi, Pa.

Both Collins and Phillips will be making their bows before boxing patrons at Twin City. Hailing from Les Denning's camp, they breezed into town Saturday night, sporting great records and determined to atone in part for the stinging defeat handed one of their stablemates, Maxie Struby, by one Jimmy Reed a few weeks ago at Laurel.

Work Out at Mohawk Gym.

Quite a crowd watched the two hard-hitting boys go through their paces yesterday afternoon at Mohawk gym. They were impressive. Collins is a tough, rough fellow who has fought with the best. He has a terrific hook, and fights cleverly. Phillips is of the "boring-in" type, a boxer who slashes away for all he is worth.

Reed's last three victims at Twin City were Jack Portney, Phil Raymond and Maxie Strub. Bowen this summer flattened Pete Deangelas and Henry Janco, who the previous week went ten rounds with Jimmy Reed at Virginia Beach.

Collins has licked the Perlick twins, of Chicago, and a host of other crack fighters, including Jimmy Reed and Frankie Petrolle. Phillips has whipped Eddie Reed, Jimmy Reed, Billy Rose, Tommy Crawley, Morrie Sherman, Frankie Petrolle and Eddie (Kid) Wagner.

The old warhorse of the ring, Joe Chaney, will scrap with Roy (Kid) Manley in the six-rounder—a match which carries considerable interest. Manley is a portpaw and is expected to give the Baltimore boxer many anxious moments. Chaney, returning after twenty months' of inactivity, turned back Don Whitlock at Portner Arena recently.

Roma Labona, a welterweight, will battle Nick Stapetick, of Walter Reed Hospital, in one of the four-rounders. Kid Bartfield, of Macon, Ga., better known as "Ears," will go after Sailor Leonard, of Boston, in the other four.

Buses will depart from the Annapolis Hotel, starting at 7 o'clock. Tickets are on sale at Vic's.

BOXING BITS AND SELECTIONS—Phillips to beat Bowen, Reed to beat Collins, Chaney to beat Manley, Labona to beat Stapetick and Bartfield to beat Leonard.

Cubs Beaten Twice By St. Louis Cards

Rookie Pitchers Mow Down League Leaders to Win, 2-0 and 2-1.

St. Louis, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Two rookie pitchers of the St. Louis Cardinals mowed down the league-leading Chicago Cubs today, and gave the Redbirds a double-header triumph. St. Louis won the first game 2 to 0, and the nightcap 2 to 1.

Tex Carleton blanked the cubs in the first game by flawless pitching, allowing only seven hits. May and Malone allowed the Cardinals only five hits, but they were bunched effectively.

Dizzy Dean held the Cubs to six hits in the second contest, and struck out six men in a row, which is just one short of the world's record. Orsatti drove in both runs for the Cardinals in the second game.

Lott-McKnight Win Spring Lake Net Title

Spring Lake, N. J., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—In a gruelling contest that went five sets, George Lott, of Chicago, and Edward McKnight, of New York, today defeated the two Texans, Jake Hess and Doc Barr, 4—6, 6—4, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3, in the doubles final of the Spring Lake Bathing and Tennis Club invitation tournament.

The victory gave Lott and McKnight the first leg on the new doubles championship bowl, recently presented by Frederick L. Duggan, of Spring Lake and Trenton, the chairman of the club's tennis committee. The bowl must be won two years in succession for permanent possession.

A's, Red Sox Split As Foxx Hits No. 43

Welch Blanks Macks, 2-0, in Second After Sox Lose Opener, 6-1.

Boston, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Jimmy Foxx hit his 43d home run of the season in today's doubleheader as the Athletics and Red Sox divided honors, the Athletics winning the opener, 6 to 1, and the Sox taking the second game, 2 to 0.

Foxx's clout, a long drive over the center field fence, put him seventeen games ahead of Ruth's record-breaking season of 1927. John Welch shut out the Athletics in the second game, while the Sox made the most of four hits off Roy Mahaffey to grab the decision.

Bridges Tiger Hero As Indians Bow, 3-0

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Tom Bridges held Cleveland to five scattered hits today and shut them out, 3 to 0, as he personally drove in two of the Tigers' runs with a single with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Rogell had scored the one run necessary to win earlier in the inning after Hildebrand had matched Bridges' mound performance for eight scoreless frames.

Howell Plays Chevy Chase With 68

Richmond Boy Cracks Par by 1 Stroke in Practice Round.

Amateur Trials Here Tomorrow; Other News of Links.

By DAVE HERMAN.

BILLY HOWELL, Virginia's favorite son and nationally known golfer, demonstrated yesterday afternoon at Chevy Chase that his spectacular subpar playing on Old Dominion courses is not confined to his native State, but even extends to difficult District links.

Serving warning to his competitors in the Middle Atlantic sectional qualifying trials scheduled tomorrow that he is at the zenith of his game, the young Richmond, Va., entry and semifinalist in the 1931 national amateur, traversed the Chevy Chase layout in 68, one below standard figures, and two strokes better than the best score recorded thus far in practice rounds by the District champion, Harry G. Pitt, of Manor.

Voigt Holds Competitive Record.

The competitive course record at Chevy Chase is held by George Voigt with a 69.

Howell's card with par follows:

Par, out	4	4	4	3	4	4	4	5	3	—35
Howell, out	4	4	4	3	4	4	4	5	2	—34
Par, in	3	4	4	3	4	4	4	4	4	—34—69
Howell, in	3	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	3	—34—68

Howell's playing was sensational. Rounding the turn in 34, he made a carbon copy of this score on the homecoming stretch. Two highlights of his subpar golf came on the ninth and eighteenth. Had they occurred in a championship tournament they would have furnished considerable drama. Even par going to the 247-yard ninth, Billy sent his tee shot 6 inches from the pin to bag a birdie two. Approaching the home hole the tall Virginian, 1931 winner of the sectional qualifying test, needed a birdie to crack par. The eighteenth measures 426 yards from the back tee. Howell split the fairway with his drive, banged his second within 20 feet of the cup, and rammed in the putt for a three.

Howell toured the course in the morning with Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., entry; C. A. Fuller, of Chevy Chase, and Jean Larkin, assistant pro. Billy, tuning up his shots, recorded a 74. Harper had a 71, Fuller a 68 and Larkin burned up the course with a 68. In the afternoon the two Virginians formed a foursome with Reggie Loftus, former boy wonder of Washington, and G. Brown Miller, both of Chevy Chase. Harper shot a 70; Loftus, also an entry in the trials, a 71, and Miller a 74.

Stevinson Has 74 Round.

A number of other out-of-town golfers rebearsed for the test tomorrow, and reported good scores. Miller Stevinson, of Columbia, recorded

MARKS FALL; U. S. WINS IN MEET

British Stars Bow in 6 of 10 Events at San Francisco.

KEZAR STADIUM, San Francisco, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—World record time was exceeded in two events, equaled in another and two other meet records broken as Olympic athletes of the United States defeated a team from the British Empire, six events to four, in their quadrennial competition here today.

Four great Empire half-milers were timed in 7 minutes 40.2 seconds in the 2-mile relay, bettering the world mark of 7 minutes 41.2, made in 1928 by the Boston Athletic Association.

J. V. Powell, Great Britain, led off, followed by Phil Edwards, Canadian Negro star; A. Wilson, of Canada, and Tom Hapson, of Great Britain, winner of the 800-meter race at the Olympic games. The United States team was composed of Charles Sansone, Edwin Turner, George Bullwinkle and Charles Hornbostel.

Powell took a substantial lead from Sansons and the Britishers increased it steadily, winning by about 60 yards.

The second world mark exceeded was in the 80-meter hurdles for women, when Simone Schaller, United States, with a strong wind to aid her, stepped the race in 11.6 seconds, bettering the time of Mildred Babe Didrikson at the Olympic games.

DIXIE PIGS WIN UNLIMITED CLASS TITLE SERIES OPENER

Heights Nine Bows, 4-3, In Tenth

Radtke Hits Homer, Drives Home Winning Run.

Dixies Given Scare in Eighth When Clapper Weakens.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

WHEN more important base hits are made, Eddie Radtke probably will make them. Yesterday the husky Dixie Pig first sacker poled a couple of safeties that enabled his team to defeat Columbia Heights, 4 to 3, in the opening game of the Capital City League unlimited championship series. A crowd of 1,500 turned out for the fray, which was bitterly contested and went to ten innings before a decision was reached. Maryland University was the scene of hostilities.

Ben Spigel, who hurled for Columbia Heights, pitched a beautiful game and deserved a better fate. He held the vaunted "murderers' row" of his opponents to six paltry hits and fanned as many. Spigel was a trifle wild on occasions, but managed to wriggle out of tight situations with the dexterity of a Houdini.

Dixies Break Ice In Second.

The Dixies were the first to score, breaking the ice with a two-run splurge in the second inning. Radtke started the ball rolling with a walk and was promptly advanced to second on a sacrifice by Collier. Joseph fanned, but Wiltshire Heights shortstop, added fresh fuel to the fire by throwing wild after taking Grover Adair's grounder. Radtke going to third. Clapper walked, filling the bases, and Eddie Dove came through with a single, scoring Radtke and Adair.

Radtke's first important sock of the game came in the sixth inning when he knocked a home run to deep left center. This blow to all appearances sealed the fate of the Columbians, but Charley Edwards' fighting crew came back with a will that almost turned defeat into victory.

The losers almost succeeded in driving Babe Clapper from the mound in the eighth inning when they scored all of their runs. Toby Ault's bingle that sent two runners scurrying over the pan featured the uprising. Clapper finally retired from the firing line in the tenth when Lewis and Frat got on base with none out. Ad Adair took up the hurling at this juncture and retired the side without damage.

Watt's Good Stop Saves Game.

"Eggie" Watt saved the day for his team in the same frame when he stabbed a wild throw behind second base with his bare hand.

It was in the tenth that Radtke's second and most important hit was delivered. It was a single to left field, marked "special delivery," and it scored Stahl with the decisive run.

The second game of the series will be played next Sunday.

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUG. 15.

The boys around the Loop were gasping today. Few had money enough to give the beaches a play. The wise ones all went down hook, line and sinker on Charleigh in yesterday's handicap and I must confess I was right with them. The card tomorrow is a typical wash day affair with no outstanding spot.

From Saratoga comes the word that Tom Shaw will set it in on Little Lad and that there will be no mistakes made with Night Patrol. Let your conscience be your guide. Adios, BILL.

FIRST RACE—Just another maiden 2-year-old scramble, the kind that keeps you groggy. And fillies at that. BABEE may repeat that last race and take the long end of this purse. MOMO and WARBLE for what's left.

SECOND RACE—NELLIE CUSTIS probably will be the favorite in this and I'll have to string along. However, if the track is muddy, I look for ISLAM to take it all. HIGH FOOT for the third money.

THIRD RACE—HARAMZADA looks like another short price, but I dislike the task of trying to upset the cold dope here. Any pay is good pay. CRUSHED STONE may surprise here and if you don't like the top fellow go to this one to place. ED LARK for third.

FOURTH RACE—TABAKU is a right smart youngster and has drawn a field I believe he can handle. SWIVEL will be right there in case the top one makes any mistakes. JESSIE DEAR may be the third one.

FIFTH RACE—Going to try to make CHOKOLOSKEE beat these. This one is on the improve and is mighty dangerous. PLUMAGE and HILLSBOROUGH for third. I have the word on PLUMAGE, but haven't the heart to put him on top.

SIXTH RACE—STRAIGHTAWAY turned in a beautiful effort recently and gets my bid in this. HATTERAS and BOARDWALKER fit tightly in the second hole.

SEVENTH RACE—You might make a worse play tomorrow than WORLDLY LAD across the board. TROMBONE for the place award and ANITA ORMONT for third.

EIGHTH RACE—RIFF RAFF is in his own company here. HAL RILEY to take the measure of TREK in the battle for second money.

ERROR COSTS PALE DRYS VERDICT

Wonder Nine Wins Midget Title on Miscue, 7-6.

A WILD THROW by the rival team's catcher and two mighty blows from the bat of Bill Guckeyson enabled the Wonder Bread nine to down the National Pale Drys yesterday, 7-6, and win the midget championship of the Capital City League. A large crowd attended the game which was played on the East Ellipse.

Frank Baroni, who hurled for the losers, worked himself into a hole in the fifth inning when he walked three successive batters. Sid Stein, his battery mate, then completed Baroni's undoing by throwing wild to third in an attempt to trap a runner, permitting all three to score.

In the seventh round, Guckeyson knocked a homer with a mate on base, and in the ninth he won the game for his team with a lusty triple with two men on. Baroni gave up only six hits, and struck out as many, but the winners made every hit count.

The Pale Drys amassed a four-run lead in the first four innings of the game, and after being overtaken in the seventh, again forged ahead with two runs in the eighth, but Mr. Guckeyson's boy nullified this effort. McReady led the losing attack with three hits. Roddy Bell, who hurled for the victors, was touched for 11 safeties but managed to scatter them effectively.

ner of the classic 1,500 meters, and coming so close to upsetting the favorite California crew that American rowing partisans were left in a daze. The chief setback for the Italians was the loss of the team boxing title they won four years ago at Amsterdam, but in this as well as in other sports the "blue shirts" made a gallant showing.

The advances in all sports made by Italy and Japan were among the striking features of the scramble for Olympic honors.

Figuring on the basis of team standings only, Germany, France and Sweden, Great Britain and Japan, in that order, were the closest rivals of the United States and Italy.

Notably in the track sports and swimming the games produced performances that have made it necessary to rewrite the record books. Every Olympic track record, for both men and women, was smashed on the fastest foot-racing stretch of all time. Miss. Didrikson led the feminine brigade in the erasure of all world records.

From the standpoint of attendance, spectacular features and demonstrations, such as those contributed by lacrosse and college football, nothing like this combined athletic circus has ever been put on before.

Pending the official tabulations, the estimates are that more than 1,000,000 spectators passed through the various turnstiles and contributed to an aggregate "gate" of nearly $2,000,000. In the huge Olympic Stadium alone, where a capacity crowd of 105,000 saw the opening ceremonies, it was estimated 600,000 were accommodated over the whole period of competition. These figures more than doubled the records for any previous set of games.

HOWELL SHOOTS 68 ON CHEVY CHASE LINKS

a 74 in practice, while A. McCook Dunlop went around in 76.

Robert T. Stead, chairman of the Chevy Chase golf committee, announced yesterday that in the event of a tie for medal honors an 18-hole playoff within five days would be the order. Deadlocks for last place will be played off by the elimination hole process. Thus far there has been only one withdrawal. Joel B. Adams, of Biltmore Golf Club, of Asheville, N. C., will not compete, it was announced. The field of 85 will find 38 from District courses competing.

Chevy Chase's course is in ideal shape for low scoring, with the burned fairways and treacherous greens, however, offering a challenge to the best.

Howard Nordlinger and Dr. E. D. Leifer tied for low net honors in yesterday's weekly sweepstakes at Woodmont Country Club. Nordlinger, ranking player, shot a 75 and had a 6 handicap for a 69. Dr. Leifer had a 93 with a 26 handicap.

Other results: William Illch, 87—14—73; Allan Hartzberg, 110—36—74; Stanley Glafer, 99—23—76; C. D. Kaufman, 100—25—75; Melvin Kraft, 87—11—76; Sydney Reisenstein, 104—27—77; Gilbert Hahn, 91—14—77; Dr. William Keroes, 109—32—79.

Mr and Mrs. E. M. McClelland triumphed in the mixed Scotch foursome yesterday at the Manor Golf Club, having a gross of 86, with a 12 handicap for 74. Second honors went to Helen and Bill Detweiler, with a 90—13—77.

Ernie Shave, pro from Akron, Ohio, played the difficult Manor course yesterday for the first time in his life, and equaled the record of 68 strokes held by Harry Pitt, District title-holder. Shave was out in 33, shaving three strokes off par, and back in 35.

His card with par:

Out, par..	5	3	4	4	4	4	4	3	5	—36

In, par....	4	3	4	4	4	5	4	3	4	—35—71
Shave	4	3	4	4	4	5	4	3	4	—35—68

Mrs. Russell M. Brown teamed with Henry Phipps to win low net honors in the Scotch foursome yesterday at Beaver Dam's golf course. They had a 91-14—77. Sixteen teams vied for honors.

Other results: Mrs. M. Stone and J. C. Johnson, 96-17—79; Mrs. N. J. Waldron and R. E. Kelly, 103-23—80; Mrs. G. Beasley and Henry Heffler, 108-26—82; Mrs. A. W. Tucker and

Rye Tennis Title Is Won by Sutter

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, holder of the national intercollegiate championship, today won the men's singles title of the Eastern grass court tennis tournament, beating Gregory Mangin, of Newark, in the final round, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3, 6—0.

The match was much more closely contested than the scores indicate, though there was never any question of the Southerner's superiority. After he had dropped the third set, Mangin seemed tired and discouraged, and proved an easy victim of Sutter's well-placed drives in the final set.

the United States in the Olympic games' 110-meter high hurdles, equaled his own world record of 14.2 seconds in the 120-yard high barrier event. His teammates, Johnny Morriss and George Saling, the latter the Olympic winner, finished second and third.

The 400-yard relay, opening track event, saw a meet record broken as the Americans, Ralph Montague, Emmett Toppino, Hector Dyer and Ralph Metcalfe, were timed in 37.5 seconds. The old meet record was 37.8 set in 1924 and equaled in 1928 by the United States teams.

Ralph Hill, of Oregon, who was nosed out by Lauri Lehtinen, of Finland, in the 5,000-meter Olympic event, ran 3 miles in 14 minutes 23.3 seconds, breaking the meet record of 14 minutes 35.8 seconds established by Booth, of the United States, in 1924. Staying back for the first mile, Hill crept up during the second mile, and took the lead. In the last lap he pulled away strongly to finish 40 to 50 yards ahead of J. A. Burns, of Great Britain. A. J. Savidan, of New Zealand, was third.

Empire milers stepped out to take a surprise victory from the United States in the 4-mile relay in 17 minutes 39.4 seconds, winning by about 40 yards. Gene Venzke, Pottstown, Pa., holder of the American indoor mile record, took the baton about 15 yards behind J. F. Cornes, English mile champion, in the last lap, and the Englishman gained most of the way.

Playground Meet Little Olympics

Those local followers of sport who had not the time nor money to attend the Olympic games may see a small edition of the great international meet August 23 when the District playground department presents its annual track and field meet for boys fashioned along Olympic lines.

Miss Sybil Baker, director of District playgrounds, returned from California and the Olympics Friday with Olympic programs galore, suitable Olympic prizes and sharp memories of how the great games were conducted. Assisted by Richard S. Tennyson and the playground staff, Miss Baker will arrange for a miniature parade of nations, one of the most striking tableaux of the Olympics, and otherwise conduct the big meet along Olympic lines.

About 2,000 boys are expected to compete. Rosedale won the meet for the second straight year last year. It is again coached by Ben Kail.

A conspicuous banner at the playground meet will be the symbolic Olympic emblem—five entwined rings on a field of white. Two stories center around this ancient insignia. One story is that it represents the five continents, North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa, and the other that it stands for the five races of humanity. The four primary colors, yellow, red, green and blue are used on four of the rings, while the fifth ring is black and the flag itself white.

MITCHELL IS SEEDED NO. 1 PLAYER

Capital Star Tops as Public Parks Play Opens Today.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Dennison (Dooly) Mitchell, of Washington, D. C., today was seeded No. 1 in the men's singles of the tenth annual national public parks tennis tournament which opens here tomorrow.

Three times runner-up to George Jennings, of Chicago, Mitchell was the early favorite to win the crown. Jennings, who was champion four years in succession, is not defending his title, being unable to play because of an injury.

The next seven seeded players in order following Mitchell are George O'Connell, of Chicago; Ted Drewes, of St. Louis; Arnold Simons, of Louisville; Gordon Brandt, of Chicago; Weston Painter, of Minneapolis; Morris Appell, of Dallas, Tex., and Lloyd Tobe, of Buffalo, N. Y. Only eight were seeded.

Play in the men's singles starts Monday and the finals probably will be reached next Sunday. The women's singles will start Tuesday and the seeded players will be selected tomorrow. Mary Zta McHale Jacoby, of Dallas, winner of the women's single crown last year, has not entered this year's event.

The tournament drew 85 entries, believed by A. T. Campbell, chairman of the United States Lawn Tennis Association National Public parks tennis committee, to be a record. The entries represent 24 cities. Each city is allowed entries for the men's and women's doubles and singles.

In the men's singles there were 56 entrants and in the same event for women there were 29. New York City led with eight entries, followed by Detroit, Buffalo and Louisville, with six each.

MAGEE IN STAR ROLE.

The Capitol All-Stars trounced the Lanham A. C. by a score of 21-7 in a loosely played game yesterday. Magee held the losers to six hits and fanned 13.

MARYLAND ACES WIN.

The Maryland Aces hung a 3-2 defeat on the Clifton Midgets in a well played game yesterday. Vendemia and Toomey Forney starred for the winners.

TWO QUIZZED AS MAN DROWNS IN POTOMAC

Theodore Royce Dies When Canoe "Just Turns Over;" Called Good Swimmer.

Less than 15 minutes after setting out in a rented canoe for a pleasure cruise on the upper Potomac River late yesterday, one of three men was swept to his death when the cra't capsized within 50 feet of the Virginia shore.

At a late hour last night police of the Harbor Precinct were still searching for the body of Theodore Royce, 25, of 1259 Owens place northeast. Royce, in company with John F. Williams, 26, of 1803 Newton street northwest, and James E. Hilleary, 22, of Fort Myer Heights, Va., rented a canoe shortly before dark from a boathouse on the District side of the river.

Boy Only Witness.

According to witnesses, the three headed the canoe for the Virginia shore. They had almost reached the shore when the craft suddenly upset. A 13-year-old boy, Jack Aiken, of 1258 Holbrook terrace northeast, was the only one to see the accident.

Jack was tanding in front of the Colonial Canoe Club in Virginia and hurried to summon aid. The three men were clinging to the side of the overturned boat, when one of them was seen to start for shore. He swam only a short distance and disappeared beneath the surface.

He reappeared twice, only to sink again before rescuers could reach the spot. Williams and Hilleary were found holding to the upset boat. They said Royce attempted to swim to shore for aid, but apparently was unable to succeed.

Fail to Locate Body.

For some time before police arrived futile efforts were made to locate Royce's body. The scene of the accident is less than a mile from Key Bridge. Walter Swartz, 22, of 1710 Thirty-third street northwest, one of the divers who attempted to find the body, declared there is a strong undertow in that portion of the river.

Although persons at the Colonial Canoe Club stated the water in that section is unusually calm, Swartz emerged from one of his dives with a bloody nose. He said the pressure was terrific and a strong current was sweeping through the spot.

Royce was said to be a good swimmer. No explanation as to the cause of the accident has been learned by police. Williams and Hilleary said the canoe "just turned over." They were taken to the Seventh Police Precinct for questioning by Detective Harold D. Johnson.

Well-Shod Pair Steals Man's Shoes Off Feet

Shoes were all two white men wanted when they held up John Costaskis, 603 Seventh street northeast, at Fifth and E streets northeast, last night.

While one of the men kept his hand in a pocket the other removed the shoes from Mr. Costaskis' feet. Both men wore shoes, the victim told police.

CATHOLIC OFFICERS GREET 1,200 WOMEN

Daughters of America Are Received by Leaders of Organization.

Twelve hundred members of the Catholic Daughters of America, representing every State and all possessions of the United States, were greeted last night by the national officers of the organization holding their annual meeting of the directorate here.

The reception was held at the headquarters of the organization, 601 E street northwest, with Miss Mary C. Duffey, supreme regent, heading the receiving line. The Court District of Columbia sponsored the event.

The women were introduced to the officers by two little girls, Miss Virginia Marx and Miss Margaret Ivey, who were attired in authentic duplications of costumes worn by George and Martha Washington. The costumes were designed by Frank A. Pearson.

Miss Duffy laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier yesterday afternoon. A large number of the Catholic Daughters attended the ceremony.

Many of the women will go to St. Peter's Church, Second and C streets southeast, at 8 a. m. today to witness the taking of the veil by Miss Mary Easby-Smith, former Washington lawyer. The young woman, who recently decided to become a nun, will bear the name of Sister Mary de Chantel.

The Rev. Dr. Maurice Sheehy, assistant to the rector at Catholic University, will be host to the delegates at a luncheon at 1 p. m. at the university. The directors' meeting will close tomorrow night with a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel.

Afraid of Insanity; Man Found Dead

Retired Army Captain's Note Asks That He Be Buried in Arlington.

Leaving notes saying he "was afraid he was going insane," a man, identified by police as Cyms G. Wood, 56, of Runnymede, N. J., was found dead yesterday in his room in a downtown hotel. Wood, police learned, is a retired U. S. Army captain, formerly stationed at Walter Reed Hospital. The note requested that he be buried in Arlington Cemetery.

The unclothed body was found under the shower in the bathroom by a porter. The left wrist had been slashed and a medicine glass, partly filled with poison, was found nearby. An open razor was found beneath the body.

Besides two notes addressed to the coroner and left on a table in the room, police found one to the hotel, leaving money for his rent, one to his lodge, and one to a fellow lodge member. In the last note he stated he did not want his widow, Mrs. Walerya Wood, of Runnymede, the only surviving member of his family, to know of his death. Money amounting to $109.34 was left with the request it be given to her.

Police learned that Wood had been a patient at Mount Alto Hospital several years ago.

Body of River Suicide Found Below Bridge

The body of a man found in the Potomac River yesterday after a search since Saturday morning, was identified last night as that of Carl Kleinsmith, 24 years old, of 2114' f street northwest. The identification was made by his wife, Mildred.

A note addressed to "Mildred" was found on the Key Bridge, from which the man is said to have leaped. The body was found by Patrolmen C. R. Spring and H. E. Pywell, dragging the river near the bridge.

According to police, Rudolph S. Taylor, returning to his home at Falls Church, Va., Saturday morning, observed a well-dressed man standing on the outer rail of the bridge. Before he could reach him, the man jumped. From the rail, Taylor saw the drowning man struggling in the water, but he disappeared before aid could be summoned.

A note, written on a paper napkin, held down by a penknife, was found later. It was addressed to "Mildred:"

"Don't let my sister know, please. It is not the right thing to do by you, but, please, I must get out of the way. Mildred, I love you." It was signed "Carl."

GUN FIGHT NETS CAB AS OCCUPANTS FLEE

Police Find Alleged Whisky After Hot Chase and Exchange of Shots.

A running gun fight between police and the occupants of an alleged rum car yesterday ended in the seizure of a taxicab containing alleged whisky. Two men escaped on foot when the taxi was overtaken.

Pvts. N. T. Emory and W. C. Handley, patroling Rhode Island avenue northwest in a Second Precinct scout car, noticed the cab, occupied by two colored men, leave Glicks alley. The cab was said to be going at a high rate of speed. The police immediately gave chase, going west on Rhode Island avenue.

The pursued cab, gaining speed, turned north on North Capitol street, then west on V street northwest. At Second street one of the men fired a shot from the rear seat of the cab. Handley returned three shots from his service revolver, puncturing a rear tire of the cab. The cab continued to the 2100 block of Grant court northwest, where the occupants jumped out and fled on foot. About 53 gallons of alleged whisky was found in the taxi.

Police Seek Boy, Missing From Home Five Days

A lookout was posted last night for Eugene Williams, 13, who has been missing from his home, 299 Fifty-seventh street northwest, since last Wednesday, his parents told police.

The lad weighs 129 pounds, has black hair and brown eyes and wore a sweater shirt, blue trousers and brown tennis shoes. The sweater bore a picture of Mickey Mouse.

WAGE TEST SOUGHT BY BUILDING TRADES

Commissioners Told Many Craftsmen Working for Less Than Scale.

The District Commissioners, as contracting officers on local government work, have been asked by the Building Trades Employers Association to bring a specific case before Secretary of Labor Doak, as referee in the prevailing wage law, to show that the existing wage scale "is out of balance with fact and illegal."

In a letter to Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, made public yesterday, the association, after expressing belief that it is incumbent upon the board to keep informed of changed conditions in the labor market, maintains that a definite revision downward has taken place and should be recognized officially.

Men Working for Less.

The petition states in part that the spokesman of a majority of the building trades unions, the Washington Building Trades Council, has formally agreed with the association and recommended to its members reductions of 10 per cent for trades receiving $10 a day and less and of 14 per cent for all those receiving more than $10 a day. The association states further that to the best of its information and belief, craftsmen actually are working for far less than the amount contemplated in the stated reductions. The letter states in part:

"The Building Trades Employers Association desires to call attention to the fact that the wage scale, as promulgated by the District Commissioners, is out of variance to a most lamentable extent with the actual facts of agreement between the natural contracting parties in such matters. The situation thus created stands as a subversion of the rights and interests of the citizens of the District of Columbia.

Wage Not Permanent.

"It could never have been the intent of the Congress of the United States to make a given wage rate perpetual. The law plainly states it as "the prevailing wage." Continuance of the pending wage scale con- [illegible] ment and has further resulted in the strangulation of the building industry in the District of Columbia. The prevailing wage law as at present administered has made paupers of mechanics who would otherwise be self-maintaining citizens. Correct this evil and there will be fewer calls for funds from official and citizen relief agencies."

Inquest Will Be Held In Armstrong's Death

Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy yesterday ordered an inquest into the death of Walter S. Armstrong, 27-year-old bank teller, who was killed Saturday night in a 30-foot plunge from a window of the Potomac Boat Club.

Dr. Murphy said the inquest would be held in view of the fact that there was "nothing definite known of circumstances surrounding the man's fall." The hearing was set for 11 o'clock this morning in the District Morgue.

Driver Jumps to Safety When Train Smashes Taxi

A quick leap saved the life of a taxicab driver yesterday when his cab was demolished by a Baltimore & Ohio freight train at a grade crossing on Bates road northeast.

Henry C. Gelly, 35, of 70 Rhode Island, northeast, was cruising on Bates road, not far from the District line. As he crossed the railroad tracks, police said, he stepped on the accelerator. The engine stalled, leaving the cab directly in front of an approaching train.

G. M. Ecker, the engineer, saw the impending accident, but was unable to stop the train. As the locomotive struck the cab Gelly leaped. The cab was carried several hundred yards down the tracks and demolished. Police said Gelly was uninjured.

LEADERS OF MILITIA DECORATED AT CAMP

Col. Oehmann and Lieut. Col. Oliff Given Medals for Long Service.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Camp Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 14.—Col. John W. Oehmann, commanding officer, and Lieut. Col. Julian S. Oliff, executive officer, were decorated with service medals today at the regimental parade and review of the 121st Engineers, District National Guard. The review was witnessed by more than 3,000 visitors from Washington.

Col. Oehmann received a 30-year service bar and Col. Oliff a 25-year service medal from the hands of Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding the Twenty-ninth Division. Service medals also were presented to the following officers and men of the 372d Infantry (colored), District of Columbia National Guard: Capt. Arthur C. Newman, First Lieut. Cornelius King, First Sergt. Ira M. Payne, Sergt. Frederick Myers, Sergt. Monroe Slaughter, Privates Eugene Davis and Joseph H. Johnson for fifteen years of service in the District Guard.

Medals for winning shooting matches held at Camp Simms, D. C., were presented also by Gen. Stephan at the ceremony on the parade ground of the camp. The engineer regiment and the colored infantry company were aligned together under the command of Col. Oehmann.

Aids Accompany Stephan.

Gen. Stephan was accompanied by his aids, Lieut. Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, adjutant general, and Maj. Sidney Morgan, inspector general. He complimented the regiment on its appearance. Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding the Maryland National Guard, was an unofficial witness of the ceremony.

Normal guard mount preceded the parade. Lieut. Lincoln S. Jones was officer of the day, and Lieut. E. A. Andrus, officer of the guard. Both ceremonies showed effect of the week of intensive training the regiment has received.

Church services were held in the morning, with Capt. A. L. Smith, regimental chaplain, conducting the Protestant service in the grove. Mass for the Catholic members was said in the Fifty-eighth Brigade headquarters building. Mass will be said at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning in observance of the Feast of the Assumption.

Services in Grove.

The services in the grove were attended by the entire regiment and included a patriotic program. No memorial service was held this year as there have been no deaths in the regiment since the last encampment.

The medical detachment had plenty of work at the parade, with ten men falling from the ranks who required treatment for heat prostration. The men were treatd by Maj. J. J. Greenlow, Capt. Walter R. Stokes and Capt. Douglas A. White, medical officers, and all were reported as recovered tonight.

Many veteran members of the regiment were on hand to greet comrades they had not seen for years.

A formal guard of the Second Battalion, commanded by Maj. Clarence S. Shields, will participate in the program tomorrow, which includes further infantry drill, rifle range shooting and chemical warfare instruction.

Medals for Shooting.

Medals for shooting were awarded as follows:

Company team championship match—First, Company E, gold medal (First Lieut. William R. Lane, Staff Sergt. Harry B. Parsons, Sergt. Henry Boudinet, Privates Stirling Chambers, William A. Copeland, John Batman); second, Company A, silver medal (First Lieut. James R. Quade, Sergt. Walter Jessup, Privates A. C. Johnson, Second Lieut. Edward B. Andrus, Second Lieut. Franklin Brickles, W. Record Catch of Fish Made by Two on River

A record catch of fish was made Saturday night by George M. Gooch, of 1335 Kennedy street northwest, and E. M. Jameson, of 1327 W street northwest, off Bloomes Island, in the Patuxent River.

Usuing a boat owned by Carl Pitcher, the two men hooked 164 trout, blues and hardheads within four hours. The fish were attracted by all types of bait, the anglers said.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE complaints of those confirmed cinemaddicts who insist that a screen star should be a supreme vaudevillian—no matter upon how short notice he may be called upon to launch an unexpected tour of personal appearances—ought to be pretty thoroughly stifled for the time being by the rather considerable versatility being displayed by Betty Compson, heading the "Star Night" vue this week at Loew's Fox.

Miss Compson, a more radiant blonde than the cameras succeeded in recording, not only acts as mistress of ceremonies for the elaborate stage entertainment of which she is the star, but leads Mr. Lampkin's orchestra—on the stage this week, by the way—in "Weary River," the theme number of the picture of the same name in which she appeared with Richard Barthelmess, which she plays also as a violin solo; executes a ballroom waltz that harks back to "On With the Show" and furnishes the exotic hit of "Star Night" by contributing a final impersonation of Marlene Dietrich in her "What Is Love?" number from "The Blue Angel," in which Emil Jannings offered so vivid a depiction of mental, moral and physical degeneration under the demoralizing influence of the seductive young woman whom Miss Compson contrives to resemble so closely—in more ways than one!

A fairly full day's work for any first-flight specialty artiste, in pictures or out.

Speaking of the Fox, John Gilbert wrote precious little to inspire admiration into his role in "Downstairs." The chauffeur he portrays in this largely libidinous recital of what happened in the servants' hall on an imaginary Austrian estate is a cad, thief, blackmailer and all-around blackguard whose despicable delinquencies are not especially ameliorated by the mere fact that he gets mussed up a bit in the end. It is less a drama that Mr. Gilbert has concocted here than a mildly pernicious character study. The picture owes vastly more to Monta Bell's direction than it does to its star's authorship.

Reverting very briefly to the "Star Night at the Cocoanut Grove" revue—to give the thing its just due in the matter of handle—Anna Chang, who appears entirely as herself, although it is billed as an imitation of Anna May Wong, was the singing star of "Singapore Sue," a Paramount short subject, recently shown at the Earle. But what has become of the chubby Chinese ahelk who sang American songs almost as well as Anna herself in that Singapore honky-tonk? They made a nice team.

According to Mr. W. A. Whitney, of The Post's reviewing staff, who has a youthful habit of haunting backstages, it has been five years since Bert Lytell, appearing in it at the Earle this week as headliner of the vaudeville bill, last presented "The Valiant" in the Capital. That was at B. F. Keith's before big-time vaudeville went into eclipse, and, incidentally, marked Mr. Lytell's last visit to Washington, professional or otherwise, prior to his arrival for the present engagement. He contemplates a new stage production of major proportions this fall, and is hoping that a new piece called "Salvage" will prove a legitimate successor to "Brothers." It is said to offer opportunity for entirely new ideas in the matter of lighting.

Unless you are going to be there yourself, tune in on the premiere of "Isle of Paradise," at the Columbia Friday night. This, you know, is to be a world premiere, with blinding lights playing up and down F street and all that sort of toff, as usual. The added novelty will be the broadcasting of celebrities from the lobby as they file into the theater. That old master, Brooke Johns, is being taken out of moth balls to act as master of ceremonies.

Of course, the real novelty on this occasion will be the picture—the rest is just Bali-hoo!

'ROAD BACK TO GOD,' IS PASTOR'S TOPIC

Best Way to Happiness Is Described in Sermon by Dr. Braskamp.

"The road back to God is the way to satisfaction, security, serenity, rest, peace and happiness," said Dr. Bernard Braskamp, pastor of the Gunton-Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, speaking yesterday afternoon at Temple Heights at a special service held under the auspices of the Masonic and Eastern Star organizations.

"During a visit of Sir Harry Lauder to the City of Manchester in England he spent an evening with an old boyhood friend," Dr. Braskamp said. "It is related that as they sat by the fireside Sir Harry found himself in a meditative mood and said to his friend, 'We are both getting older, and I suppose our views on life are more sober and settled now. My only bairn was killed in the war and I have had my moments of bitterness and desolation. I have been at the point when a man does one of three things—he becomes desperate or takes a drink or turns to God. I have had to turn to God, the God we learned about when we were lads together. Let us kneel down and pray as we used to do in the old kirk.'

"The world has much to offer us and there are times when we feel that we lack nothing, but even in our most contented and prosperous days there comes a yearning to get back to God," Dr. Braskamp said.

In discussing "The Road Back to God" as offering security, Dr. Braskamp said: "One of the things we want most of all today is security, but again and again we are made to feel that the words 'safe and sound' have a very uncertain ring about them. How eagerly we look for investments that will give us gilt-edge security, for all about us there are those who are in poverty and distress because their money wasn't securely invested. Then we want security for our moral and spiritual life and the life of our children and young people. When the messenger came to David telling him about the fate of his son, Absalom, the very first question that the distressed father asked was this, 'Is the young man safe?' The heart of man today can find safety only when it is fixed upon God. If we would keep from breaking faith with our higher and better self, then we must give our lives over to Him."

Child's Auto Death Inquest Is Set Today

An inquest into the death of Leland Scott, 5, of 2334 Minnesota avenue southeast, who was killed in an automobile accident Saturday night, will be held at 10:30 a. m. today, Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy said last night.

Two other members of the child's family were seriously injured and are in Casualty Hospital. According to police, Leland's father, Harry Scott, was driving the machine. It was in collision at Twenty-sixth street and Minnesota avenue southeast, with another car, operated, police said, by Harley Bissonette, 22, of 1242 Pleasant street southeast. Bissonette was arrested and will appear at the inquest.

FAITH SEEN AS BASIS FOR CHRISTIAN LIFE

Rev. Frank H. Clutz Preaches Sermon at Luther Place Church.

"Faith in Jesus Christ is the primary basis on which to build the Christian life," declared the Rev. Frank H. Clutz, assistant pastor of the Luther Place Memorial Church, yesterday.

"Faith Based on the Deeds of Christ" was the subject of the sermon.

Mr. Clutz said, in part:

"'He hath done all things well,' was the testimony of those who were with the Master by the Sea of Galilee when He opened the ears and loosed the tongue of the afflicted men. When Jesus sighed an 'Ephatha' to heaven and immediately the deaf mute 'spoke rightly,' the crowd was astonished. They expressed an immature faith in their tribute, but they little knew how great was the truth they uttered.

"Now that the ministry of the Son of God is complete, we know on an infinitely stronger foundation than did this group that 'he hath done all things well.' These words summarize His ministry from the very beginning to the very close. Knowing the records it is quite impossible to conceive of His having done anything badly. Such is almost sacrilege.

"What a basis have we for faith in this Jesus of Nazareth! He not only went about healing broken bodies and quieting disturbed souls, but He taught them the love of God and the way of salvation. He lived victoriously. He died even more victoriously.

"Having built a strong faith on the deeds of Jesus Christ we can not fail to express that faith. A strong, firm and true faith must manifest itself in good works, in deeds of loving kindness. Never has the world so much needed faith in one who is able to bring peace of soul. Jesus not only 'hath done all things well,' but through the presence of the Holy Spirit He still does all things well."
